TORNADO CAUSES DEATH OF FIFTY AND HUGE LOSS

Regina, Capital of Saskatchewan, Almost Totally Destroyed Sunday Night

$10,000,000 DAMAGE DONE

City in Darkness During Terrific Storm Which Strikes Amid Celebration

HOUSES USED AS MORQUES

Hospitals Are Overcrowded with More Than 200 Injured, and Homes Are Made to Serve

WINNIPEG, Man., July 1.—Report reached here this afternoon that a conflagration is raging in Saskatoon, Sask. Telegraphic communication was entirely cut off and no further information that the mere fact that the town was being swept by fire could be obtained.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 1.—Messages reaching here today tell of the recovery of fifteen bodies from the ruins of buildings in Regina, struck by a tornado last night, since daylight. Twenty were recovered last night. The last word received up to 10 o'clock this morning said that the reports of the cyclone there had been exaggerated and that the total list of dead would probably not exceed fifty. There were several blocks still to be searched, it was said. The list of injured will reach 200. Many of the injured are in a serious condition and will increase the death toll.

$10,000,000 Loss

More accurate estimates today put the property loss at from $4,000,000 to $10,000,000 in the tornado last night, which almost totally destroyed Regina, the capital city of Saskatchewan.

Today twelve hours after the storm, conditions are still chaotic, and it was thought that it would require days to ascertain fully the damage wrought by the wind.

Practically the whole north side of the city was wiped out. As bodies today were recovered, scores of the living rushed to them, seeking to identify missing relatives, and the hospitals that remained standing were overtaxed. Dozens of houses were pressed into service as morgues.

The city was in darkness last night following the wrecking of the electric power plant, and rescuers were hampered in their efforts to rush hundreds of wounded to hospitals.

The path of the cyclone was several blocks wide and passed through the heart of the city. Three churches, the finest in the city, business buildings in both the wholesale and retail districts, and practically every north side residence were blown down by the sudden powerful wind.

Carries Boats Half Mile

Railroad cars standing in the yards were picked up and carried many feet. The city this morning was strewn with canoes and small boats that were blown in from Wascana lake, three-quarters of a mile away. Many heavier craft and small sailing vessels were lifted from the water and carried into Victoria park, a half mile from the lake.

Yesterday the entire city was decorated for "dominion day." The festival colors were on every building. Colored electric lights were strung about the downtown districts and all the residents were dressed in gay attire for the holiday. Today all the buildings left standing by the storm bear some decorative sign of mourning. Improvised morgues and temporary hospitals are filled by the victims of the storm. Today many husbands had not yet found their wives and families. Many wives were seeking husbands and children among the dead and injured.

CONVENTION AT A GLANCE

11:30 a. m.—Convention is called to order.
11:07 a. m.—Call of the roll of the states on the 27th ballot started.
11:20 a. m.—On Murphy's voting 90 for Clark, the vote was challenged and a poll of the delegation was demanded.
12:25 p. m.—Twenty-nine of Indiana's thirty votes were cast for Wilson on the twenty-eighth ballot. The remaining vote went to Kern.
2:48 p. m.—Iowa splits the vote and Wilson takes the lead for first time.

THOMAS HERMANN CALLED BY DEATH

Pioneer Merchant Tailor Succumbs After Short Illness of Bronchitis

LIVED IN LA CROSSE 27 YEARS

Elks Will Conduct the Funeral Services at Home and Church on Wednesday

Thomas Hermann, who has been engaged in the merchant tailor business in La Crosse for the last twenty-four years, died at his home, 706 State street, at 8 o'clock this morning, after a short illness of bronchitis. Physicians believe pneumonia set in shortly before death and was responsible for his failure to recover.

Mr. Hermann has been a resident of La Crosse for twenty-seven years. A few years after coming to this city he became engaged in the clothing business and at the time of his death was the proprietor of a clothing establishment in the Bataavian bank building.

He was born at Sogn, Norway, February 3, 1857, and came to the United States when 18 years old. He settled in Chicago, where he lived for ten years, after which he came to La Crosse, where he was married eight years later. He was a prominent member of the local lodge of Elks.

He is survived by his mother, two sisters and three brothers, residing in Norway. His relatives residing in La Crosse are his widow and six children: Charles, Florence, Helen, Virginia, Theodore and Ralph.

The funeral services will be held at the home at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and at St. Paul's Universalist church at 2:30 o'clock. The services will be in charge of the La Crosse lodge of Elks. This will be the first time in the history of the La Crosse lodge that the Elks have taken charge of a funeral, and the Elks' funeral services will have been used. Burial will be made in the Oak Grove cemetery.

PASS GOVERNMENT APPROPRIATIONS

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The thousands of employees of the government in the postoffice and other departments will continue their duties. This was made certain when the house and senate this morning passed the existing government appropriation bills by viva voce vote. The joint and house resolution embodying their action was sent immediately to President Taft, who signed the bill at once.

WON'T HEAR BRYAN.

MEXICO, Mo., July 1.—The local Chautauqua management today told its Chicago bureau not to engage William J. Bryan to make an address at the Mexico Chautauqua convention next year. "It would not meet only a financial loss but we would not want to be responsible for what might happen," declared A. H. Whitney of the local management today.

WEATHER

For La Crosse and vicinity: Unsettled weather with probably showers tonight or Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

For Wisconsin: Unsettled but generally fair weather tonight and Tuesday; warmer east and north portions.

For Minnesota: Unsettled weather with probably showers tonight or Tuesday; cooler west and north portions Tuesday.

For Iowa: Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

Weather Conditions
The weather is fair east of the Mississippi valley with moderate temperature and clear and warm in the Dakotas and western Minnesota. Showers have occurred in the Mississippi valley from St. Paul to Dubuque, in western Kansas and western Nebraska, the Rocky mountain region and north Pacific states. It is raining this morning at Miles City, Oklahoma and Memphis and is generally fair at all other stations. The pressure is low from the plateau region northward into Saskatchewan and highest over the lake region. These pressure conditions indicate unsettled weather in this section tonight and Tuesday, with probably showers. The temperature change will be small.

SAYS BRYAN WILL BE PUT TO PROOF

Clark Managers Declare He Must Prove Deal Between Speaker and Tammany or Retract

MUCH COMPROMISE TALK

O'Gorman, New York, and Kern, Indiana, Strongly Boomed as Progressives for Vacancy

BALTIMORE, July 1.—"I demand exact justice from every democrat, either in this convention or throughout the nation. With William Jennings Bryan and his charge made in the convention the issue is proof or retraction. I shall expect him to meet that issue."

May Go to Convention

This is the challenge of Speaker Champ Clark to Mr. Bryan, which Mr. Bryan is expected by many of his friends to meet in the convention today. Speaker Clark says he feels that Mr. Bryan has impeached his honor. He is determined that Mr. Bryan shall either make good his impeachment or stand before the convention and the country as a slanderer. If necessary, Speaker Clark says he is prepared to go before the convention and personally defend his good name, regardless of what effect such action may have upon his chances of nomination.

Nomination Secondary

With him now the question of whether or not he shall be nominated is of secondary importance, says his managers. He feels that his honor is at stake and he will defend his honor at any cost to his ambition.

Mr. Bryan declares the Clark forces must either make good his charge that Speaker Clark has fettered himself to the Morgan-Ryan-Belmont interests to promote his candidacy or he must retract it.

Despite the claims made widely by Clark managers that the Bryan espousal of the Wilson cause will have the effect of helping the speaker, the general consensus of opinion today among political sharps at the convention seems to be that the choice will be either Wilson on an early ballot or a long drawn out deadlock. The Wilson leaders, who have been working desperately since the convention adjourned, declare they would gain enough strength on the first few ballots today to cause a general rush to the band wagon.

Bitter Against Bryan

The Missouri men were very bitter both against Bryan and the Wilson managers. They insisted that there was no jurisdiction for the Bryan attack and they had thousands of cards distributed among the delegates containing the following taken from the Clark letter to Senator Stone, made public last night.

"I know of no reason why I should insult the ninety delegates from New York by refusing their vote. And I know of no reason why I should try to destroy the prospects of the democratic party by presumptions and insolent behavior. Some men think they may win advantageously aided by such thinly veiled threats to the enemy, and malice. I do not believe as they do, but if I did I would not so abuse myself for a thousand presidencies."

Dark Horse Talk

Dark horse candidate talk was prevalent today, following the issuance of a statement by Bryan last night in which he named several progressives as being "presidential timber." Chief among these were Senator O'Gorman of New York, and Senator Kern, Indiana.

Other dark horses, who are now being grouped in anticipation of a race, are Mayor Gaynor, New York, Governor Foss, Massachusetts; Culberson, Texas; Rayner, Maryland; Ollie James, Kentucky. Of these, Culberson and James are the only two who bear the stamp of the Commander's approval. He has eliminated Underwood as a possible candidate, although the boomers of the latter are insisting that his strength in the south makes him an ideal choice. They also declare that he can swing the vote of the Harmon faction.

A determined effort to swing Murphy into line for Wilson was made by Senator O'Gorman and several others on the New York delegation today. They told Murphy that there was little doubt that the swing was toward the New Jersey governor, and that New York should get on the band wagon.

Murphy, it was understood, told the Wilson men that New York could never be for Wilson. He is reported to have said that the Bryan endorsement "would kill Wilson" so far as New York was concerned.

HOUSE APPROVES CLARK.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—In answer to Bryan's charge that Speaker Clark was in league with unhealthy political interests, the house today unanimously voted full confidence in the speaker, "regardless of political affiliations."

TAFT APPOINTS BULLITT

WASHINGTON, July 1.—William Marshall Bullitt of Louisville, Ky., was today appointed by President Taft to be solicitor general of the United States.

THIRTIETH BALLOT GIVES WILSON LEAD OVER CLARK IN CONVENTION OF DEMOCRATS AT BALTIMORE

BRYAN CAUSE OF CHANGE IN SPIRIT

Commoner Has Forced Big Break Between Progressive and Conservative Faction

CLARK MEN ARE PLEASED

Claim Peerless Leader Has Caused Certainty of Victory for the Party in November

BALTIMORE, Md., July 1.—Nothing could be more marked than the temper of the delegates today, as contrasted with that of a week ago. Then the spirit was one of conviviality and even in the most extreme cases it never got beyond the stage of good natured rivalry. Nowhere was the bitterness so apparent as in Chicago. Conditions were so peaceful that some of the old timers declared that it was not democratic. They had no such plaint to make today. The fight has reached the "death quarter," which neither is asked or expected. Rivalries have developed into hatreds and what at first appeared to be a mere surface crack, had today developed into a continually widening chasm between rival factions, the real depth of which cannot be sounded. Many old timers say the gap can never be bridged.

All factions charge Bryan with the break—the Nebraska's friends exulting in it, and his opponents bitterly, even profanely assailing him.

That the commoner from the first fall of the gavel has been the biggest individual force in the convention is the general verdict. He is at once a hero and a bogie to the party. His appearance on the platform, or mounted on a chair in his own delegation, is always a signal for simultaneous opposing demonstrations, mingled with cheers and hisses. In the opinion of many delegates, Bryan is cold-blooded and deliberately wrecking a party to satisfy his vanity and egotism. Another faction—and a large one, judging by the roll calls, holds to the belief that he is subjecting democracy to a course of treatment, which, while decidedly painful, will ultimately result in its rejuvenation and rehabilitation.

MAY DISCONTINUE SUMMER SCHOOL

Larger Attendance at North Side Center Necessary to Support the Institution

Unless there is a larger enrollment of pupils within the next few days at the summer school which opened in the Logan school, the north side center, this morning, it will be necessary to discontinue the service in the north side station according to a statement of Superintendent of Schools L. P. Benetz today. The attendance at Lincoln school, the south side center, was larger than expected with evidence that it will increase this week.

The summer schools were opened to give the grade pupils who fell behind in their studies last year because of sickness or other reasons, a chance to catch up with their classes and to give other pupils who are desirous of winning promotion a chance to do the extra work necessary.

"Unless the attendance at the north side center shows an immediate increase," said Mr. Benetz, "it will have to be discontinued. One of the provisions of the law under which the summer schools are conducted is that the schools must be self-supporting. Whether the parents have not received sufficient notice of the opening of the schools or whether the small enrollment is due to other causes, I am unable to say. The school at the south side opened with a good attendance and will be continued through the entire course, but it is up to the people on the north side to say whether the Logan school will be kept open."

RILEY INFANT DEAD

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Riley died Sunday afternoon at 4:30 at the home of his parents, 917 South Fourth street. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 from the house, and at 3 o'clock from St. Mary's church.

New York congressman for whom two erratic Alaska delegates to the democratic convention in Baltimore voted for presidential nominee when the first ballot was taken.

DOWNTOWN FIRES COME IN A BUNCH

Firemen Called to Six Places Since Saturday Night; but Small Damage

Six fires have broken out in La Crosse since Saturday, keeping the firemen continually on the jump since early Sunday morning. The first fire started at 12:40 Sunday morning in the rubber goods jobbing house of B. J. Russell, 107 South Second street, and caused more damage than any of the others. Chief N. Bradfield today declared that the fire probably started in a waste box in the rear of the building and that the damage would amount to over $300.

The second call sent in was from the Webster school on Redfield street at 3:10 yesterday afternoon. The flag pole of the school was struck by lightning but no great damage was done.

At 8:15 and 8:40 o'clock last night alarms were sent in for fires at the Tribune office, Fifth and Jay streets, and the Elliott and Loeffler wholesale liquor house on Pearl street. Both fires were caused by short circuits in electric wiring. It is thought that the heavy electrical disturbances were responsible for the crossing of the wires. In both cases damage was small.

At 11:20 last night fire broke out in the restaurant of S. Salmons, 208, South Third street, which is believed to have originated from an oil stove in the rear. Although the building was closed, little damage was done.

The last of the fires was at the confectionery store of Robert Schulz, 508 Main street at 9:10 this morning. The fire started in a pipe leading from the candy oven but was extinguished almost immediately.

WINONA TAKES THE THIRD OF SERIES

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., July 1.—Winona won the third game of the series with Eau Claire yesterday by the score of 3 to 2 after a hard battle. Yesterday's victory gives the Pirates their second win in three games here and tightens their hold on first place.

M'CORMICK SEES T. R.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 1.—Robert S. McCormick, leader of the Illinois delegation to the republican convention when the bolt came, came to Oyster Bay for a conference with Roosevelt. McCormick is said to be an emissary from Governor Adee, seeking to arrange an agreement between the Roosevelt and Deneen forces.

HAIL AT MIDWAY

A heavy rain storm in the town of Barre yesterday did considerable damage to roads. The Barre Mills road is reported to be completely washed out at one place. A heavy hail storm was experienced at Midway yesterday but little damage was done.

LEAD GAINED BY JERSEY MAN BELIEVED TO SHOW SIGNS THAT END OF THE DEADLOCK IS AT HAND

Every Ballot Since the Thirtieth Gives Wilson a Bigger Lead Over Clark, and the States Start to Switch

FIFTH REGIMENT ARMORY, Baltimore, July 1.—Woodrow Wilson, governor of New Jersey, took the lead from his chief opponent, Speaker Clark, on the 30th ballot. Wilson had started the day with 407½ votes on the 27th ballot. He gained slowly, but steadily, however, and on the 30th ballot went past the speaker.

Iowa split on this ballot, 14 delegates voting for Wilson, as against 12 for Clark, and Congressman Henry D. Clayton of Alabama, the chairman, ruled that the unit rule had been broken, and the vote should be recorded as cast.

The vote on the thirtieth ballot showed Wilson 460 as against Clark's 455.

The announcement that they had at last secured the lead caused the Wilson supporters to start an uproarious demonstration, and then the leaders redoubled their efforts to get Illinois into line for Wilson. They boasted that, if they could get Roger Sullivan and his men lined up, they could stampede the convention for the New Jersey executive.

Up until the very moment of calling the convention to order, conferences were held. But there was apparently no result. The Underwood forces were trying to make a deal with all other delegations, but failed to make any headway.

Foss Not Candidate

Governor Foss visited Bryan at the Belvidere Hotel today. He conversed with the "Peerless Leader" for fifteen minutes and afterwards said: "I came to assure Mr. Bryan that I am not seeking delegates at the present time. I will not become an active candidate unless it is apparent that a hopeless deadlock exists."

Many of the delegates were looking up precedents for an adjournment today. While found possible, it was agreed that this would only be possible as a last resort, and when it had been absolutely demonstrated that no agreement could be reached.

To Recess for Primaries?

A suggestion that met with favor in certain quarters was for a recess of four weeks, during which preferential primaries could be held in the various states. This plan was declared by many western leaders to be a good one, but the easterners denounced it as a "Bryan plot." It was started by members of the Wisconsin delegation.

It was 11:03 when the convention was called to order by Chairman James, the opening prayer was by Rev. S. Carroll Coate, of Baltimore.

Bryan came in immediately after the prayer and was uproariously cheered from the galleries. The majority of the delegates sat stolidly in their seats.

A desperate effort was made just before the convention was called to order by the Champ Clark managers to formulate some plan of action, but as Representative Sulzer said: "Nothing was accomplished."

"We stand just where we were when the convention adjourned on Saturday," said Sulzer. "We won't nominate today, tomorrow nor Wednesday."

Former Gov. Francis of Missouri acquiesced in Sulzer's statement.

The twenty-seventh ballot resulted as follows:

Unofficial totals, 27th ballot: Clark, 469; Wilson, 406½; Underwood, 112; Harmon, 29; Marshall, 30; Bryan, 1; Foss, 38; absent, 1½.

When Murphy voted 90 votes for Clark, W. H. Edson of Faulkner, Chautauqua county, in the New York delegation, arose in his seat and challenged the vote of the state, to force a roll call.

Attacks Bryan

John B. Stanchfield when his name was reached in the New York delegation asked unanimous consent to change his vote and his request was granted. "I come from a state," he said, "whose electoral vote is indispensably vital to democratic success. I would like to say to Col. Bryan that in 1896, I was one of those who followed his flag and four years later I ran on the ticket with Col. Bryan and he received 100,000 more votes that year than he received before, or since.

"We have upon the New York delegation the governor of the great state of New York, the candidate for president in 1904, and it is by common consent the most representative delegation that ever came from the state of New York. There would be no defense were it not for the imputations against them on the floor. Now, if we are the puppets of wax that the favor hunting, mon-

FISHERMEN WILL FIGHT "PIRATES"

New Plan to Eliminate Illegal Taking of Game Fish Is Being Urged

ASK FOR NEW LEGISLATION

Would Make Local Organizations Responsible to State for the Members

A new plan to eliminate the "pirate," the man who is blamed for all the troubles of the commercial fisherman, which is said to have the hearty approval of the game and fish departments of both Wisconsin and Minnesota, legislators and the commercial fishermen themselves, was unfolded to several La Crosse sportsmen and fishermen by J. M. Axtell of Sparta today. Mr. Axtell's plan is to make every fisherman responsible to some fishermen's organization for his license. This organization will in turn be responsible to the state for its members and if it does not make each one of its members obey the game and fish laws it will lose its charter. Mr. Axtell is the organizer of the Mississippi Valley Fishermen's union and is well known in La Crosse.

"The river pirate or the man who catches and sells game fish is the biggest evil that the legitimate commercial fisherman has to contend with," said Mr. Axtell today. "He is to blame for the agitation that has been worked up against all commercial fishermen and it to their interest to put him out of business."

"The Mississippi Valley union has decided upon a plan which we think will do away with this evil. This plan has been approved by State Game Warden John A. Shotts of Wisconsin and H. A. Rider, executive agent of the state game and fish commission of Minnesota. Wherever it has been talked to the fishermen it has found immediate favor and several members of the Wisconsin legislature have said they would help us put it through."

"The plan in brief is to make commercial fisherman responsible to a fishermen's organization for his license to fish and to make this organization responsible to the state for its actions."

"The fishermen of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa are pretty well organized now but we intend to extend our organization to include every man who makes his living fishing along the river in the three states. Our plan is to urge every locality to organize 'locals' which will be members of the large organization."

"We intend to go before the legislature and ask for a law that will make every local responsible to the state for its members. According to our plan, every fisherman will obtain his license from the state through his local and that state will hold the local responsible for him. If he breaks the law the other members of the local will be forced to take his license away from him in order to keep their charter."

"Although the state wardens are a very efficient force of men the commercial fishermen are often able to learn of 'pirating' where a warden would never hear of it. In self defense they would enforce the laws. Some of the best statesmen in Wisconsin have said that they believe that such a law should be enacted and have expressed the opinion that it would solve the entire problem of the commercial fisherman. When we get our organization perfected we will attempt to get the same laws passed in Iowa and Minnesota. It is probable that several changes will be made in our constitution and by-laws to meet the new situation."

Mr. Axtell said today that he had interviewed many of the influential fishermen all along the river and was encouraged to believe that all were in hearty accord with the plan.

Ambassador's Privileges.

An accredited ambassador is wholly free from the jurisdiction of the courts of law or of any other authority in the country to which he is sent. His house is as sacred as his person. It is regarded not as belonging to the country in which he is living, but as a part of the country which sent him. It could no more be entered by the police than a town could be occupied by the soldiery of another nation. This protection is extended to the inmates of the house. If a wrong is committed by some one in the employ of an embassy, in any capacity, the only means of redress is an appeal to the ambassador or to the government which sent him, and which will not, it is supposed, allow a wrong to be sheltered under the peculiar privileges granted its representative.

Filling the House.

The theatrical man just in off the road was recounting to the New York manager his qualifications for a box office post.

"I don't see that you are any better than a dozen other men I can take my pick from," said the manager. "You say you can sell tickets. So can they. Nobody can sell tickets if people don't come to buy."

"No, they can't," said the man, "but I have the knack of seating people so an audience of 50 people will look like 400, and the house will never look empty."

"There's a good deal in that," said the manager, and he gave the man the job.

26 VOTES RESULT IN NO NOMINEE

Convention Adjourns Saturday Without Arriving at Choice for President

CLARK LOSES; WILSON GAINS

Results of Final Balloting Show Steady Increase of Bryan-Wilson Forces

BALTIMORE, Md., June 1.—With Governor Woodrow Wilson gaining on each ballot and Speaker Clark constantly losing ground in the race for the presidential nomination, the democratic national convention at 11:05 o'clock Saturday night adjourned until today at 11 o'clock.

When the convention adjourned Speaker Clark was hurrying to Baltimore from Washington in response to an urgent call from his campaign director, William Jennings Bryan, at the afternoon session, had attacked Clark and had said he would vote for no man willing to accept nomination at the hands of "Murphy of Tammany hall." It was the plan of Mr. Clark to appear before the convention and make answer. In this way his managers hoped to bolster the falling vote.

The ballots on Saturday ran from the thirteenth to the twenty-sixth. Wilson began at 356 and ended at 467 1/2, a net gain during the day of 51 1/2 votes. Speaker Clark began at 554 and fell to 463 1/2, a loss of 90 1/2 votes. The anti-Clark leaders in the convention called attention to the fact that this almost exactly offset the ninety votes given to Clark by the New York delegation.

Clark Men Seek Recess

After nine futile ballots during the afternoon the supporters of Clark attempted to secure a recess, but were defeated, most of the Wilson, Marshall and Harmon forces joining the opposition. They feared in a recess the Clark leaders would effect some coalition to nominate the speaker. The twenty-second ballot was then ordered. It showed but little change from the previous ballot.

On the twenty-third ballot Clark dropped below the 500 mark, Wilson gaining slightly.

As the twenty-fourth ballot proceeded with little change in the lineup, any chance of breaking the deadlock that has gripped the convention seemed hopeless at the present session. The leaders who had been anxious to secure an adjournment began to feel that the struggle was hopeless, and rumors were constantly circulated that adjournment until Monday would be ordered.

Clark Falls to 469

The twenty-fifth ballot went ahead without excitement. Outside the confusion that made the chairman interrupt the proceedings occasionally to demand order, the vote was colorless. When the result was announced it was found that Clark had slipped back to 469, while Wilson had reached 465. Foss, the new entrant in the race, had the original forty-three votes with which he started his "dark horse" entrance. Evidently it was not the psychological moment for a mysterious stranger in the lists and the other candidates held their strength.

Harmon was back with his twenty-nine Ohio votes. Foss's strength for the most part came from Massachusetts, a desertion from Clark at his greatest strength.

The twenty-sixth ballot was as colorless. The Wilson forces made some slight advance. Maryland was reached.

Senator John Walters Smith announced the vote as sixteen for Mr. Clark. It was protested and a poll demanded. The poll was ordered. Smith was the first man called. He voted for Clark. Joshua W. Miles was called. He rose to his feet, then he clambered on his chair. He is a big man with a big voice.

"For whom does the gentleman vote?" asked a clerk.

"For Woodrow Wilson," rang out the voice of Miles. The convention went wild.

After a long Wilson demonstration the delegates finally quieted down, and the roll call continued. The result of the roll call was: Clark, 467 1/2; Wilson, 465; Harmon, 29; Underwood, 112 1/2; Marshall, 30; Bryan, 1; Foss, 43.

The convention then adjourned.

Power of Vegetable Growth.

A tar macadam pavement stretching from the school of gunnery at Shoeburyness (Eng.) to the sea is at present in a state of violent if silent eruption. About a fortnight ago the surface became covered with what may be called "blisters," raised a little above the common level, which attracted much wondering attention.

From each of these, in a few days, a series of cracks appeared, extending themselves in rays from a center. Finally came up a broad, soft shoot, looking extremely well pleased with itself and its work, which proved to be so old and well known a friend as the thistle. At this moment there are hundreds of those bold intruders showing defiantly through the pavement, affording a most interesting illustration of the power of vegetable growth.

MEN ARE RESCUED WITH GARDEN RAKE

MILWAUKEE, July 1.—Two men were overcome by gas in a manhole at North avenue and Twenty-sixth street Saturday night, and six persons were injured in an explosion that followed.

The gas company employee had gone into the manhole to investigate a leak. When he was overcome, another man went down to rescue him, and was also overcome. Peter J. Muench, a saloonkeeper, pulled both out with a rake.

MUNICIPAL MILK STATIONS

One of the first and most important duties of every city is to see that the milk reaches the customer in a reasonable state of cleanliness. As a large per cent of the milk brought from the country is the food of infants it is necessary that it should equal at least the national percentage of 18 per cent. The farmers say themselves they wish to give us the best of milk, and even though it may cost more than impure milk, consumers, for the sake of the child and those who depend on the fluid for their health and existence, are willing to do anything in their power to obtain good clean milk. Approximate attainment of this purpose is one of the values La Crosse is getting from its health department.

In the United States one-third of the children born die before they reach the age of five years. Impure milk is one of the causes and probably the most important one. It ought to be the duty of the health officer of the city to educate the farmers by instructing them in approved methods how to care for herds and stables. An idea which was tried out with much success in one city was the opening of two municipal milk stations. Nurses were placed in charge of these stations on the care of the baby and of milk in the home. This soon had its effect and under the direction of a competent physician the death rate of infants and small children dropped lower than it had ever been before. It is probable, however, that in small cities like La Crosse there is no need of depots, as dealers are constantly under the eye of the health officials.

Other cities have come to realize that milk stations, while valuable, are not sufficient, and just as long as the milk comes into the city impure or dirty the city's death rate will reach a large per cent of loss that can be avoided. A Chicago ordinance passed in 1909 gives the dairy men who supply milk either to distributors or to the city five years in which their herds must be free of tuberculosis. It also requires that all milk coming from untested herds shall be pasteurized, which is the only safe way unless the herd has passed the tuberculin test. While a loose and rather prospective improvement, these conditions are better than formerly found in Chicago.

BRYAN SEES BEYOND THIS CONVENTION
That Bryan has beaten Wilson, that he has saved Wilson, that he has killed himself, that he has killed or has saved the democratic party—these are the things discussed on all sides as people watch the course of the sensational Baltimore convention.
But that is not what Mr. Bryan is thinking about. Can he save the republic? To him the party is but an instrument to the end he would serve—true democracy in which every individual shall have equal participation and equal profit.
It matters nothing to Bryan that what he is doing is popular or unpopular, as one chooses to view it. Bryan's measure of human action is this: IS IT RIGHT?
Human, and so not always right, Bryan is dominated by conscience. If that were not the fact, how easy would it have been for him to idealize Clark and claim a victory!
Those who today worry or exult over the thought that Bryan has "killed" himself will do well to turn back and note how this man emerged from each of three defeats as a presidential candidate, a bigger and a more powerful figure in our national life.

WATER POWER AND BEAUTY

Georgia's desire to save the splendid Tallulah Falls from being used for power purposes has failed, but the essential purpose of the crusade has been successful. The company which is to generate electricity from the waterfall has announced that it will spend many extra thousands of dollars in enhancing instead of marring the beauty of this natural wonder. The expression of public opinion voiced in southern newspapers has convinced it that the public utility corporation which would defy such a strong sentiment would be committing financial suicide.

The almost boundless water power facilities in this country undoubtedly must be developed if we are to save the coal supply and it can be done without sacrificing scenic beauty if the public insists. The public should insist. It should demand, as the southern public in this case has done, that power companies shall not mar natural surroundings. It costs more money to serve the double ends of beauty and utility, but the feat can be accomplished.

THE VALUE OF PUBLICITY

In a comprehensive and artistic edition of sixty-four pages the Aurora "Beacon-News" furnishes an interesting review of that prosperous and ambitious city. The topics are judiciously selected and aptly illustrated, and the entire edition shows the hand of a careful and up-to-the-minute editor. No similar edition that has come to hand has made so deep an impression of efficiency, and our own experience in reading it emphasizes the practical value of the enterprise. We cannot conceive of an intelligent citizen, anywhere, going through the pages of the edition without experiencing a feeling of interest and of familiarity with Aurora such as the actual visitor feels after a day of sightseeing. A publication making that kind of impression represents more than value received to its patrons, and does honor to its publishers.

A Texas girl's picture, "Behind the Fan," has been hung in the Paris saloon. But hanging is too good for the man behind you at the ball game who pretends to know personally all the members of the home team.

A delver into musty archives has ascertained that the word "black-guard" was originally used to designate the coal man. Might have known it.

The talk of a compromise candidate may not be out of the question. It looks as though all the candidates will be compromised before they get through.

The court has ordered a Kansas sheriff to empty 18,000 bottles of beer. There are doubtless some Kansas sheriffs who could do it.

WANTS NEW TRIAL

FOND DU LAC, Wis., July 1. — The defense in the case of Robert Prill of Ripon, convicted of the murder of Ed Schmidt of Fond du Lac, hurried a surprise at the state on Saturday in its application for a new trial by submitting five affidavits charging that I. G. Lytle of Green Lake, a juror, had expressed an opinion relative to the guilt of the accused previous to the trial.

Fraternal Sympathy
Mike, a lusty good natured Irishman, was one of a number of workmen employed in erecting a new building. The owner of the building, who knew him, said to him one day: "Mike, did you tell me once that a brother of yours is a bishop?" "Yis, sorr." "And you are a hod carrier!" The good things of this life are not equally divided, are they, my man?" "No, sorr," rejoined Mike, shouldering his hod and starting up the ladder with it. "Poor Terrence! He couldn't do this to save his loife."

Was Rosentful
A presiding elder, in charge of an old fashioned camp meeting, used to blow a horn for the people to assemble for worship. One morning his six year old son James said: "Father, why do you blow that horn?" His father replied: "My son, to call the people together to make them good." James who had been punished by his mother for disobedience, and was resentful, said: "Well, father, I wish you would blow it at mother!"

Two or Four Kinds of Women.
Someone—probably one of those Frenchmen whose life job it was to make epigrams—once said that there are but two kinds of women: good women and bad women. Ever since then problem playwrights have been putting that action into the mouths of wronged husbands and building their "big scene" around it. But don't you believe it. There are four kinds: good women, bad women, good bad women and bad good women. And the worst of these is the last.—American Magazine.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

The Mother's Hour
When the twilight hour is here, Mother, draw your children near, As your mother, in her day, When she taught your lips to pray.

Sow the seeds of love and truth In each heart in early youth; That their growth in later life Leave no room for doubt or strife.

Though to varied tasks all day Must your hands and thoughts give way, Do not lose the twilight hour Lest you miss your strongest power.

Little eyes all day will look To the hour for story book, Song, and prayer, at mother's side— Let no care this trust divide. Cora A. Matson in Farm and Home.

His Invitation
She (at the garden gate)—"Won't you come in for a little while, George, dear?" George—"No—; I think not." She—"Oh, I do wish you would. It's so lonesome. Mother has gone out, and father is upstairs, groaning with rheumatism in his legs." George (eagerly)—"Both legs?" She—"Yes." George—"Then I think I'll come in for a while."

First Engaging Pretty Typist. I am tired of engaging pretty typists. I'm going to employ the plainest looking one I can find in future. Second Business Man—"What the trouble now?" First Business Man—"I've had eight pretty ones during the last two years, and they all left to get married after they'd stayed just long enough to strike me for a wedding present!"

Humor on the Links
She (whose sliced brassie shot hit her partner, who has fallen)—"Oh, Lourie, dear—; speak; do speak." (Kisses him.) "Don't say I've hurt you badly." (Kisses him again.) "Oh! are you dead, are you dead?" (Shower of kisses.) He (to himself)—"You go right on. You can bet your hairpins I'm dead as long as this lasts."

Proper Pride
Jessie—"Oor Jamie's no' at the schule the day, cause he's got the measles, an' my mither says he'll no' be oot o' the hoose for twa or three weeks." Maggie—"An' oor Lizzie's got the measles, tae; she's got them frae the bairns at the dairy." Jessie (scoffingly)—"At the dairy! Oor Jamie got his frae the minister's bairns."

Amusing the Baby
One day two ladies, one of whom carried a baby, entered a furniture store, and signified their desire to look at some carpets. It was very warm, but the salesman cheerfully showed roll after roll, until the perspiration literally streamed from his every pore. Finally one of the ladies asked the other is she did not think it was time to go. "Not quite," was the answer of her companion; and then, in an undertone, she added, "Baby likes to see him roll them out, and we've plenty of time to catch the train."

Trying Case
Man is often placed in an embarrassing position, and for the time being would give all for the word to be out of it. The most heart-rending case probably on record is explained by a note which was recently picked up in a rural postoffice. It read as follows: "Dearest —, the reason I didn't laff when you laff at me in the postoffice yesterday was because I had a bile on my face and can't laff. If I laff she'll bust. But I love you, bile or no bile, laff or no laff."

Baith Wrong
A Scottish groom drove his master up to a railway station as a train approached. "Here's yer train, sir," said he. "That is not my train," replied the master, who had his own ideas about correct speech, "but it's the train I am going by." It happened, however, to be a special train, which did not stop at that station. As it whizzed by the groom exclaimed: "We're baith wrang, for it's neither your train nor the ane ye're gaun by; it's the ane that's gane by you!"

PREVENT THE FLY FROM BREEDING.

Screen stables if possible. Remove the manure at least twice a week. Keep the manure while it is in the stable in a closed bin or pit. Every time the stalls are cleaned and the manure placed in the pit or bin sprinkle it with dry plaster (powdered gypsum) or slaked lime. Be sure that you sprinkle the cracks and crevices of the bin or pit, as well as the cracks between the planking of the stall floors. If flies begin to breed in stored manure they may be killed by thoroughly spraying it with kerosene or paris green and then pouring on enough water to wash the oil or poison well in. Remember that fourteen days elapse between emergence of the adult fly and egg laying.

Keep the house free from flies. Every fly should be considered a possible disease carrier and should be destroyed. Keep the windows of the house, especially the kitchen windows, carefully screened during the spring, summer and autumn. Protect children from exposure to flies and do not allow nursing bottles to be exposed. Protect milk and foodstuffs from contact with flies. Keep the garbage outside of the house carefully covered. Abolish open drains near dwelling places.

The MAN in the BROWN DERBY

WELLS HASTINGS
Author of
The Professor's Mystery
Copyright, 1911, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"He has not been with us very long," said Nancy, "and my uncle employed him. He meant no harm, I think, and was only acting under instructions. I found none of our old servants when I came back from abroad, and Uncle Ephraim kept for ever changing the ones we had. I asked one of the maids, who seemed to care for me a little, to mail a letter for me to one of my father's old friends, but she only gave it to my uncle, and I was punished for it. There was really no one I could go to."

It was more than I could bear. The sweet voice of my beloved sounded level and dead in its monotony of pain; I looked at her as she walked slowly beside me; her head was bent a little forward, and her eyes looked very tired, as they gazed, unseeing, at the road before her.

"He shall pay for it all!" I cried out. "He shall pay for it now. He struck—your hand! I will strangle him with mine! He shall have cause to think them the hands of Death!"

Her eyes looked into mine, wide at the sudden terror of the great passion that I could no longer hide, then tears came into them, and her hand fell timidly upon the tenses of my arm.

"I am very tired," she said; "I don't think that revenge would make me happier. I want to rest. He is too strong for us, Mason. He has tied us very strongly, for whatever you did I should suffer for. Even if you could injure him, he could injure us. The strength of your hands would only bring you into the law, and you are my husband—or perhaps you are not. Don't you see that, whatever our relation is, he has tied your hands for ever with my name?"

I bowed my head, for it was true. Ephraim Bond would never have anything to fear from me; even if our marriage was illegal I was the more strongly bound. And then a great joy, a mighty wave of selfishness swept over me. Whether either of us would or no, Nancy was bound to me for all time. I had only meant to give all my help and all my love but the situation had moved beyond my control. Because in the eyes of the world, we had lived not quite eighteen hours as man and wife, as man and wife we must live until death came to part us.

But I bore her greater love than that; I loved her too truly to be selfish very long. Perhaps, even yet, there was time to help her in a more unselfish way, and to frighten Ephraim Bond into his senses, to punish him in some measure as he deserved.

"Nancy," I said, "if our marriage was not legal, there is a way out for you yet. Scarcely any one has seen us, scarcely any one knows that we have been here at all. Suppose that I go back to New York alone and look into this business. If we were not really married I will go to your uncle and tell him all that I now know. The witnesses of an illegal marriage would scarcely be at much pains to tell of what they saw. You could be happy, then, and free, for I could frighten your uncle into giving you anything that you wished."

Nancy said nothing, but kept walking slowly beside me. Far down the road I saw the dust of a wagon.

"We will have to stop now, if we are not going to be seen together. There is some one coming in sight now," I said.

"Are you unhappy?" Nancy asked. "Are you unhappy with things as they are?"

"You know that I am not," I answered. "I have never been so happy in my life."

"Nor have I," said Nancy, and her voice was very low but unafraid.

"Nancy!" I cried, and I stopped short in the middle of the road. The wagon was coming over the ridge of the next hill.

"Well," said Nancy quietly, but I thought her voice shook a little.

"What do you mean?" I asked. "You mean that you are more happy than you have been in years; that is all you mean, isn't it?"

"No, I don't mean 'isn't it,' but I am more happy than I have ever been, more happy even than I was when my father was alive to me."

"But—oh, Nancy, you could not care to be near such a man as I am. Happiness in nearness means love, and you could never love such a man."

"Could you love me?" Her voice was very low indeed now.

"Love you? I love the very things that you have touched. I have never done anything else but love you, and fight against it, since I saw you in the doorway. Whether you love or hate me, I can never do anything else but love you. God forgive me, how should I dare to love you, and yet how can I help but love?"

"I think that I love you, too. Hush, dear, it is not wrong of you to love me."

"Nancy!"

"Wait, Mason; do not touch me yet. You and love have come so suddenly into my life, that I can scarcely believe it all. I must have a little time, a very little time, Mason dear, but I do not think that we need be afraid."

The wagon rattled up, and was past in a cloud of dust. I was drunkenly dizzy, and Nancy and I and the bright country around us seemed hazy unrealities; then, slowly, things straightened them-

EVELYN THAW STILL FEARS HUSBAND: A CYNIC NOW, BUT STILL BEAUTIFUL

Latest picture of Evelyn Thaw, and sketch of her made during recent Thaw hearing.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw still fears that if her husband ever gets out of Matteawan he will attempt to take her life. She made this plain at the hearing of Harry K. Thaw's application for release from the asylum recently. She acted as a witness for the state against him. Those who were present at the Thaw hearing noted many changes in Evelyn Thaw since the last appeared in court. She has become a cynic, but with all her cynicism she has grown more beautiful. The girlishness has entirely disappeared and the big fawnlike eyes have become as cold as steel. The slender figure has become a bit fuller; the arms and neck are rounded out and there was an air of independence about the woman, as she parried with Thaw's lawyers and returned their thrusts, not noted at the former trials.

selves about me, and with a great effort I regained some self-control.

"Very well," I said, "you shall tell me when you have had time to think, but do not forget what you are and what I am."

"I have never forgotten that," she answered.

"Then come," I said; "we have more errands to do than we shall possibly have time for."

So we walked along the road until we saw the town cradled in a little valley at our feet.

"I think that heaven must be in a valley," said Nancy.

I looked at her, and smiled. "Heaven," I said, "is not in any fixed place at all, but moves encirclingly about the wandering feet of Love." And that was the last time on all our walk that love was mentioned between us.

We did a great many errands and it was very pleasant to purchase the little homely things that go to make up living. We bargained and bought, as if we had been buying pans and vegetables all our lives, and we returned laden with the lightest and most necessary of our spoils.

Once we were well home again, and Nancy was busy exploring the closets, setting things to rights, and planning the disposition of the wagon load of things that we expected the next day from the village. I thought it a good opportunity to get the brown derby hat from its place behind the bush.

BASEBALL TEAM LOSES MANAGER

Nelson's Superintendent Stops Train to Take the Fresh Air in a Rain Storm

Whether Olaf Olson, manager of the Nelson Clothing company baseball team, is training for a marathon race or whether he is trying to reduce his weight so that he can pitch for his team, may never be known but the nine that he chaperoned to Viroqua yesterday came back today and told a story of how the genial Ole walked five miles through a rain storm yesterday afternoon.

According to the story of those who accompanied him to Viroqua, Ole looked out of the car window, much interested apparently in the scenery, after the train left Westby. After they had traveled a short distance of the way from Westby to Viroqua, Manager Olson got the conductor to stop the train and Ole disappeared, leaving his team to make their entry into Viroqua without their leader.

It is said that Ole left the train to pay a visit to a fair friend of his who lived on a farm and that he expected to get a ride into Viroqua. However, he was doomed to disappointment in this, for he found out that he had to walk the five miles to the scene of the baseball game.

Just as the Viroqua bunch took the field to give the locals their first bat, the attention of the players was called to a man, covered with mud, running down the road at full speed, breathless and with his hat in his hand. The game was momentarily halted to allow players and spectators to see what the trouble was, but all anxiety was ended when the mud covered sprinter asked for the score and sat down on the bench to direct the attack of his team.

FOURTH OF JULY PROGRAM READY

Start Work on Pavilion and Band Stand in Cope-land Park This Morning

Work on building the pavilion and the bandstand to be erected at Cope-land park for the big Fourth of July celebration of the Progressive league was begun this morning and will be completed in plenty of time for Thursday. The committees are constructing buildings which will be appropriate for the day and will be large enough to accommodate big crowds.

Two big ball games, foot races, boat races and band concerts will be the chief attractions at the park on the afternoon of the Fourth of July while the parade will be the feature in the morning. The evening will be taken up with the fireworks display which is to be the best ever seen here.

According to the present indications many people from the nearby towns will be here to attend the celebration.

is the guest of La Crosse relatives for a couple of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson of Davenport, Iowa, is visiting at the home of Mrs. Wm. Johnson.

Miss Katie Miller, who has been the guest of friends and relatives in North Dakota, has returned to her home, 1706 Berlin street.

Alfred Hollister of Chicago, was a business visitor here today.

Mrs. J. C. Delacy and daughter, Mrs. I. M. Reynolds, 1225 Kane street have returned home after a five weeks' visit with relatives at Archibald, Pa.

BOYS TO WORK THEIR PASSAGE TO EUROPE

A trip to Europe which they expect will take up the greater part of the summer and which they will make entirely on their own resources, was begun by Ben Brindley, son of Judge John Brindley, and Everett Brewer, the son of a millionaire gun manufacturer of Chicago, today. The boys, both of whom are twenty years of age, will go to Boston, where they will ship as common laborers on a battleship. They will not only receive their passage free but expect to have a snug little sum saved up for their travels on the continent by the time they get across the "pond." They will tour England, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Switzerland before they come back, working whenever they run short of money. They expect to make the return trip on a battleship in time for the fall semester at the university where they are classmates. If the "lark" turns out to be as much fun as the boys anticipate, they will surely have an interesting story to tell their friends when they return.

COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

A special meeting of the city council was called for tonight to consider the matter of returning the license fee of Bruno Brewer. His application was accompanied with the fee of $200 but under the system now in use the council must take action before this can be refunded despite the fact that he was refused a license. Brewer applied for a license for the location occupied by the Empire saloon but as this had already been leased, the council refused the license. Members of the council plan on passing an ordinance by which the fees are immediately returned in case the license is refused.

CITY PICNIC JULY 18

The picnic committee of the city council met at the mayor's office in the city hall this morning to make arrangements for annual picnic of the city officials. It was decided to hold the picnic Thursday, July 18 and to charter the Steamer Badger for the occasion. The place at which the picnic will be held is still undecided.

WHY WE DETEST PARASITES

Feeling of Instinctive Revulsion is Justified, for They Are Carriers of Disease.

The feeling of instinctive revulsion against parasites of all kinds which characterizes humanity generally, and which is due to something much more than the mere pain or annoyance that their bites might inflict, become more interesting as further discoveries show the role of insects in the spread of disease.

Unfortunately this natural abhorrence has not been enough to protect man under conditions of poverty and uncleanness from harboring such parasites, and now those who understand how much more than a mere personal annoyance is in question from the existence of parasites must take up the problem to eradicate them.

The possibility of the bedbug conveying relapsing fever, typhoid and leprosy has been suggested and apparently there is no parasite of man that may not be a mode of disease conveyance. Flies, fleas, mosquitoes and bugs not only are all under suspicion, but most of them are also actually demonstrated as ordinary and frequent conveyors of diseases of various kinds.

Health authorities must now take up the problem of getting rid of insect parasites in order to stamp out disease. — From the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Nothing so completely knocks a contrary man silly as to have you agree with him.

Hunter Describes the Clever Work of a Hungry Bear in Catching a Salmon.

One year, the berries being destroyed, many bears visited the river for fish. I was walking up the river shore one evening about sunset watching for a deer. Rounding a bend I saw, perched upon a flat rock some few feet from the shore, a large black bear. I could not tell at first what he was doing. He was stooping down with one paw in the water waving it gently to and fro. I watched closely and saw, just beyond his reach, a large male salmon, so nearly dead that he could not swim. The bear was using his paw to create an eddy which would draw the fish within his grasp. Slowly the salmon drifted toward the rock.

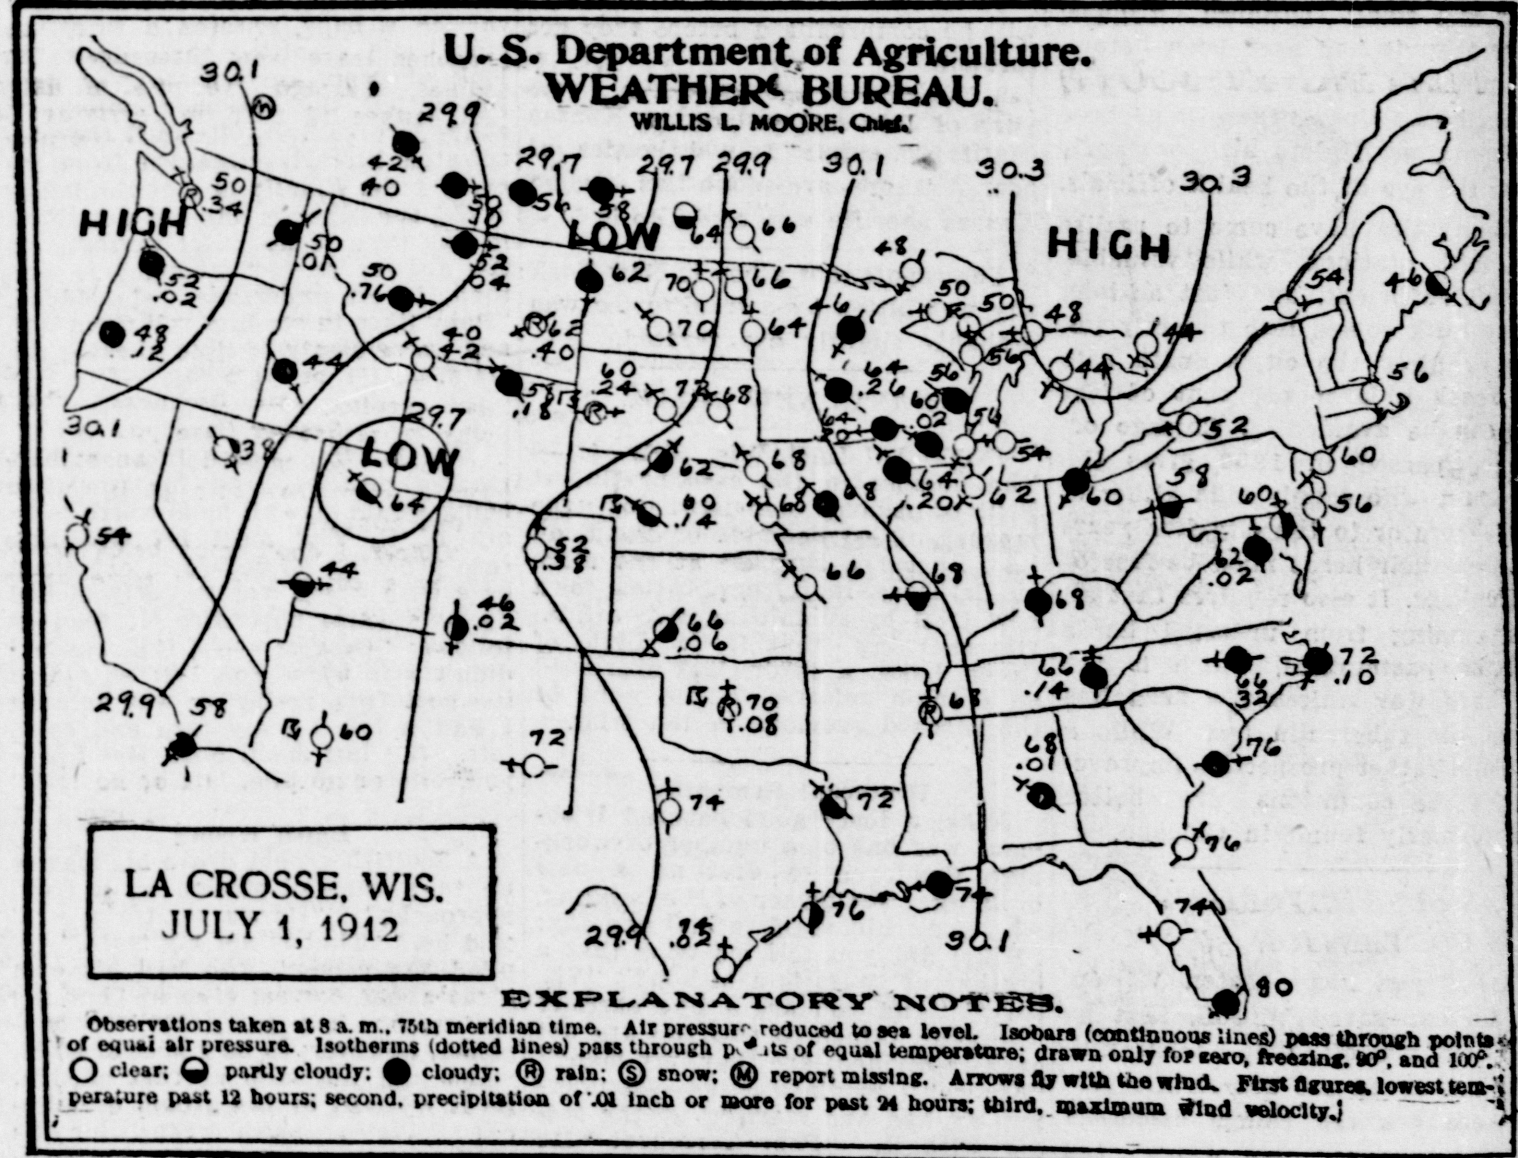

It was amusing to watch how carefully the bear moved his paw so as not to frighten his prey. At last the fish came within reach, Bruin reached over, gave it a quick slap, seized it in his jaws and leaped ashore. The whole performance tickled me so that I let him go off, the salmon dangling in his mouth, without even taking a shot at him.—Charles Stuart Moody in the Outing Magazine.

Definition of the Beau.

A beau is one who arranges his curled locks gracefully, who ever smells of balms and cinnamon, who hums the songs of the Nile and Cadiz, who throws his sleek arms into various attitudes, who idles away the whole day among the chairs of the ladies, who is ever whispering in some one's ear, who reads little billetsdoux from this quarter and that, and writes them in return; who avoids ruffling his dress by contact with his neighbor's sleeve, who knows with whom everybody is in love; who flutters from feast to feast; who can recount exactly the pedigree of Hircinus. What do you tell me, is this a beau, Cotius?
Then a beau, Cotius, is a very trifling thing.

SCHOOL CENSUS IS BEGUN TODAY

Co-operation of Parents Is Necessary to Get Full
Allotment of State
Aid

WILL REDUCE CITY TAXES

Every Name Added to Roll Means $2.60 from the State and that Much Less from City

Five men under the direction of L. L. Brown began taking a census of the school children of LaCrosse today. The census which is taken annually to determine the amount of state aid the city is to receive will continue for the next fifteen days.
According to the authorities the school population of the city should show an increase of several hundreds over that of last year. Last year 9,678 were registered, an increase of 343 over the registration of the year before.

"It is important that we obtain the co-operation of the parents in the taking of the census," said Superintendent of Schools L. P. Benezet today. "Every name added to the roll means $2.60 in the state aid and a corresponding decrease in the amount which the city must pay toward the support of the schools. Every citizen who is interested in the reduction of the taxes in La Crosse should see to it that no children are overlooked by the census takers. If every family is not reached and every child registered by the 12th or 13th of this month the parents should notify Mr. Brown. He will be accessible by telephone at any time in the city hall."

"We had some difficulty last year with some of the parents who taking the mistaken idea that the taking of the names of their children meant that they would have to pay more taxes. The truth of the matter is that the more children registered the less the taxes will be. The census takers will make a thorough canvass of the city and will endeavor to overlook no one but in a city this size there are sure to be some who will escape their attention. The cooperation of the parents is necessary and not one name should be overlooked."

French Revolutionary Months.

The order of the months in the French revolutionary calendar beginning with September 22 the tour was Vendemiaire, Brumaire, Frimaire,
Nivose, Pluviose, Ventose, Germinal, Floreal, Prairial, Messidor, Thermidor (Fervidor) and Fructidor, which ended on September 16. Then followed five days, the Sansculottides, dedicated as feasts of reason to Les Vertus, Le Genie, Le Travail, L'Opinion and Les Recompenses. Decreed November 24, 1793, this calendar was antedated to September 22, 1792. It was abolished on Nivose 10. An xiv, corresponding to December 31, 1805.

SOCIETY

ANNUAL OUTING OF THE TWEN-TIETH CENTURY CLUB AT THE LAW-FINCH COT-TAGE

The Twentieth Century club with a few invited guests enjoyed a delightful afternoon Saturday at the Law-Finch cottage. The guests left the city in the early afternoon by various conveyances, motor cars, street cars and carriages, for the rendezvous, arriving there in good season. The guests distributed themselves in the comfortable chairs and couches on the commodious veranda, and busied themselves with their crocheting and other fancy work.
Mrs. E. G. Perkins read a very interesting and spicy paper upon the district convention of the Federated clubs which was recently held at Mondovi, and to which she went as a delegate. A long table was stretched on the rear piazza which was loaded with all kinds of good things to eat. The company was ably served by Mrs. A. P. Hankerson and Miss May Williams. About 8 o'clock the guests took their departure after returning thanks to their hostesses, who so delightfully entertained them.

son Burton and Dr. and Mrs. Maurer.

F. R. A. ENTERTAINMENT

The Dramatic club of the F. R. A. will stage one of their vaudeville sketches tonight at Linker's hall. The sketch is a comedy of high class and full of action and hilarity from the start to the finish. The cast is composed of seven people with laughable situations about evenly divided between all of them. Refreshments are to be served and a dancing party afterward so that the members, with their invited friends are looking forward to an enjoyable evening.

SURPRISE PARTY

A delightful surprise was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Gowdy at their home, 1803 Berlin street, Friday evening by members of Robert Hughes camp, Sons of Veterans, John Flynn post and Relief corps, No. 25.
The party assembled at the Spencer home and when the band played the bugle call, the soldiers and sons once more fell in line as the well known
"Fall in" was heard.

The occasion for the party was for the purpose of thanking Mr. Gowdy for the beautiful silk flag presented Robert Hughes camp by him. In behalf of the camp, Commander W.
C. Winter gave a short talk to which Mr. Gowdy responded. Other short talks were given and the music by the band was greatly enjoyed.

At a late hour ice cream and cake was served.

Those who enjoyed the affair were
W. C. Winter, Mr. and Mrs. D. W.
Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Mosher, Mr.
and Mrs. James McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. Adams, Mrs. A. E. Powell, Miss
Dixon, Mrs. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs.

AUTOMOBILE RIDE

Mrs. John Kroner took a party out to Moos farm last Wednesday, where supper was served. There were three motor cars and about eighteen in the party. The return was made by moonlight.

MRS. REITZEL ENTERTAINS

Mrs. A. F. Reitzel entertained few friends at a porch party Saturday evening at Mrs. A. M. Heyerdah's. The guests enjoyed a treat of luscious red cherries sent from Wenatchee, Wash., by Mrs. Getts.
Mrs. Reitzel's mother, who has been spending the past three months in the west. Mrs. Getts, after a visit in St. Paul, is expected in La Crosse.

Difficulties of Reform.

"Reform," remarked Farmer Corntossel, "is something that has to be approached with great caution and perspicacity." "Yet you must admit that we need reform." "Yes. But so does that colt. Only every time I start to reform him he lames himself, breaks the spring wagon and gives the whole family nervous prostration."

Overstraining.

standing while trying to enable his daughter to live in a style which will give him the right to demand big

QUEER THINGS ABOUT PAIN

Patient May Feel It in Limb That Has Been Amputated, or in Wrong Place.

Pain sometimes behaves in a curious fashion. There was a soldier in London, after the Boer war, who complained of excruciating neuralgic pains in his right foot. This very much amused his friends, for he had lost his right leg.

The explanation was that the pain happened to be in the trunks of those nerves, which had sent branches to the foot.

Sometimes a patient comes to a doctor complaining of pain in the knee, and he is greatly surprised when the doctor tells him that the site of the affection is not the knee, but the hip. We are all familiar with the pain under the shoulder blade which comes from an afflicted liver.

The stomach, too, can produce pain in many parts of the body. A disordered stomach will give us pain as far away as the head, and, when one gets a cramp in his toe, it is often due to acidity of the stomach. Swallow a pinch of soda and the cramp will disappear.

An aching tooth will produce neuralgic pains in the face, and very often a violent pain at the back of the head is due to the faraway kidneys, which themselves may suffer no pain at the time.

Mother's Chair.

Mother's chair had rocked the whole family. It made a creaking noise as it moved, but there was music in its sound. It was just high enough to allow us children to put our heads into her lap. That was the bank where we deposited all our hurts and worries. Oh, what a chair that was. . . . It was a very wakeful chair! In the sick day of children other chairs could not keep awake—it kept easily awake. That chair knew all the old lullabies, and all those wordless songs which mothers sing to their children. Songs in which all pity and compassion and sympathetic influences are combined.
That old chair has stopped rocking for a good many years. It may be set up in the loft or garret, but it holds a queenly power yet.—T. DeWitt Talmage.

STILL OBSERVE MARKET DAY

Canadian Cities Preserve a Worthy
Old Institution Brought Over From Great Britain.

"Market day" for ages an institution in England, still exists in certain localities, and may still be studied with interest by the tourist who visits Halifax, Nova Scotia, or Charlot-town, Prince Edward Island, where large enclosures and roomy market houses are maintained for the benefit of the country people and such citizens as have established a regular market business. Everything from live stock to a bouquet of flowers may be brought here for sale, the owner being allotted a suitable place and charged a small fee for his accommodation, and while most of the market people are far from being especially rustic in their dress or speech, the variety and sometimes the peculiarity of their offerings still suggest the important part which the English market and its legal control played in the local and business life of three centuries ago.—Charles Winslow Hall, in National Magazine.

Saved the Cat's Life.

A cat that was sunning itself on a platform before a store in Barclay street suddenly arose, stretched and walked to the exact middle of the street, where it lay down on the wooden pavement, relates the New York Tribune. A truck came rapidly down the street, but the driver saw the sleeping animal and turned his team aside. The cat never so much as wiggled an ear. The first vehicle was followed by a second, the driver again avoiding a fatality. Several wagons passed and the cat still remained unscathed. Then a man who had been watching from the sidewalk, picked a banana peel out of the gutter
and threw it at the cat, waking it up and sending it scurrying to a nearby doorstep. "A cat has only nine lives," the man said, "and eight wagons have barely missed running over it. I thought I had better save its last life before the next truck passed."

POLICE PREPARE FOR JULY FOURTH

No celebration by means of fireworks will be permitted until July Fourth, according to the orders of Chief of Police Webber this morning. Several lads have been reprimanded and their fire crackers confiscated as the result of impatience and the chief declares that any further violations of this character will meet with arrest and prosecution. He also declares that all laws governing the use of fire crackers and explosives will be enforced to the letter on the Fourth.

Dr. Edward Evans today issued a general request to the citizens and children of La Crosse asking that they refrain from using explosives in the neighborhood of hospitals and to aid in keeping others from doing so. Chief Webber says that in case Dr. Evans' request is not complied with, many will find lodging awaiting them at the police station.

Thumbs in Social Customs.
Few persons realize how important a role the thumb has played in the social customs of the people.

Erskine records that among certain classes of people in Scotland the final settlement of a bargain was always signified by the licking and joining of thumbs.

Selden says that kissing the thumb was a characteristic of servility. The clergy, the rich and the great, were in receipt of this honor from tradesmen. From remote times the practice of licking the thumb has been regarded as a solemn pledge or promise, existing, according to Tacitus and others, among the Goths, the Iberians and the Moors, and it may also be traced through successive periods down to the present time.

Primrose Day.
Primrose day (in England), the anniversary of the death of Benjamin Disraeli, Lord Beaconsfield, had its origin in the tribute, a modest wreath of primroses, sent by Queen Victoria for the funeral of Beaconsfield. The general impression that the primrose was Beaconsfield's "favorite" flower came from a misunderstanding of the words attached to the queen's tribute: "F. Victoria. His favorite flower." The public thought the queen meant that the primrose was Beaconsfield's favorite flower, when in truth she meant that it was the favorite flower of the prince consort.

SCHOOL BUILDING, DRESBACH, MINNESOTA.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that sealed proposals for the erection and completion of a brick and tile school building, including all labor and material, except heating and plumbing, will be received by the School Board in the Village of Dresbach, Minnesota, until the hour of 10 a. m., on the 15th day of July, 1912.

All bids must be in strict accordance with the plans and specifications prepared by Percy Dwight Bentley, architect, of La Crosse, Wisconsin, which may be had on application to the Builders' Exchange of La Crosse, Wisconsin, and also at the Clerk's office at Dresbach, Minn.

A certified check for two per cent (2 per cent) of the amount of bid payable to the order of Mr. Chas. Zisch must accompany each bid as a guaranty, the same to be returned to the unsuccessful bidders immediately on the letting of the contract.

The party to whom the contract is awarded will be required to give a satisfactory bond of fifty per cent (50 per cent) of the amount of the contract for the faithful performance of the contract.

It is the intention of the Board to award the contract to the lowest responsible bidder, but the right to accept any or reject any or all proposals is reserved.

(Signed) CHAS. ZISCH,
Clerk of the School Board.

New University Extension Division Is a Great Success in La Crosse

IS A BENEFIT TO WORKERS
Ideal System of Education for Ambitious Young Men and Women

The university extension division which was opened here last September has proven to be a great success. On June 30, 1912, there were 322 registrations recorded. This exceeds the prediction of Professor W. P. Roseman, who arrived just ten months ago to take charge of the district. He believes, a year hence that over 500 people will be taking advantage of the benefits offered in this department of education.

During the winter months, eleven study groups were organized and the subjects under consideration were discussed. In addition to class discussions, conference periods were held daily as well as three nights of the week. The university extension rooms in the Longfellow school building at the corner of Sixth and Vine streets, are open every day in the year, except legal holidays, and Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. However, during the winter months, it was necessary to keep open four evenings of the week. This affords a great opportunity for the young men and women of La Crosse who are ambitious to obtain an education and who wish to continue earning money at the same time. Correspondence-study work, combined with class instruction as well as individual instruction, ought to afford an ideal system of education, especially for those who are trying to perfect themselves in a trade.

School Never Closes
Courses may be begun at any time. A correspondence-study year is twelve months long. While each professor is allowed one month's vacation during the year, his work is handled by others during his absence.

In addition to the work of the correspondence-study department, the department of debating and public discussion has been kept busy answering the many calls received from organizations of various types throughout the district, and the lecture department has furnished thirty educational lectures and entertainments in different sections of the district. Through the department of general information and welfare, much valuable information has been furnished to municipal and civic organizations. This is a department, however, the purpose of which is not clearly understood. It conducts two permanent bureaus—the municipal reference bureau and the bureau of civic and social center development. It also co-operates with other organizations in holding civic and vocational institutes.

Information for Cities
The municipal reference bureau is a bureau of information for cities of the state. It collects data on all phases of city government and places the same at the disposal of city officials and citizens having those problems to solve.

The bureau of civic and social center development devotes itself to developing, through the wider use of the school plants and otherwise, neighborhood social centers throughout the state, for the purpose of giving an opportunity for the free discussion of civic questions and directing the activities of children as well as grown-ups in a neighborhood. This department has been not only of great assistance to cities and villages in helping to solve municipal problems, but has done much toward building up social life in the country, making it a greater inducement to farmer boys and girls to remain on the farm and give more attention to the scientific development of the soil.

Advocates Leaves of Soap.

A chemical friend of the Scientific American suggests that a campaign be started against the common cake of soap. About 50 years ago there was sold a form of soap for travelers, consisting of a booklet, about two inches by four inches, in which small leaves of soap paper saturated with soap were bound. Each leaf contained enough soap for one washing of the hands. It is suggested that one might profitably dispense, through a penny-in-the-slot machine, a paper towel in which is folded a sheet of soap paper, for convenient use in public lavatories.

Clumsy Flatterer.

He was a flatterer, but a clumsy one. Noting that the girl of his heart possessed beautiful teeth that shone like ivory, he ventured to pass a compliment.

"Dearest," he whispered, leaning over the music rack, "your teeth are like piano keys."

Freezing him with an icy glare, she turned on her heel. "Sir, how dare you insult me?"

"Insult you?"

"Yes, insinuate that my teeth are as large as piano keys." And without another word she left the parlor, leaving him crestfallen and bewildered.

Sight for Familiar Objects.

A familiar face and form may be recognized at from fifty to one hundred meters.

REPUBLICAN SOLON ATTACKS PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, July 1.—A sensational attack was made in the senate today by Senator Works (Rep., Cal.) upon President Taft, Colonel Roosevelt and both national conventions. The contest between Taft and Roosevelt, he said, was "an unexampled spectacle." The nomination of Taft, he declared, was procured by fraudulent, illegal means. It was tainted. He would not support him. Works said he did not favor a new party. He praised the work performed by Bryan in the Baltimore convention as being for civic righteousness.

NEED MORE BOAT DRILLS ON LINERS

LONDON, July 1.—Necessity of more boat drills on liners, and a more systematic organization of the crews was one of the most powerful lessons drawn from the Titanic disaster, according to Sir Rufus Isaacs, attorney general, who today continued his argument on the Titanic inquiry.

He said that it was in explicable from the evidence, why the lifeboat that took off Sir Cosmo and Lady Duff-Gordon held only 12 persons instead of 40, its capacity, and why no effort was made by the boat's occupants to rescue some of the drowning whom they testified they could see struggling in the water.

TASTING WINE FOR LIVING

Strange Calling Followed by Women Born With Delicate Palates Is Very Lucrative.

Of the list of strange callings followed by women that of wine tasting is one of the most curious and lucrative. As a matter of fact, Mlle. Collinere, whose services are in great demand in France, Germany and Italy as a wine taster, is said to make an income of about £5,000 a year, many firms employing her for regular work and frequently for special duty.

Only half a dozen wine tasters have been known to history, the most renowned of these being the wife of a famous London wine merchant, Mme. Pommeroy, who died in Paris twelve years ago, and Signora Sousa, who has a great reputation in Spain on account of her judgment and knowledge of wine.

Wine tasters, it appears, are born, not made, and must possess the gift of a rare and delicate palate. To this, of course, must be added a knowledge of wines. Mlle. Collinere's taste is so fine and her knowledge of wines such that she can discern from the first taste of a wine just where the grapes grew from which it was made, whether they were raised in California or in the vineyards of France, Germany, or elsewhere. She can easily detect adulteration of any sort, or if there is a blend and of which wines, and can tell the age of a wine almost to a day. As a matter of fact, there are no secrets that a bottle of wine can withhold from this remarkable Frenchwoman once she has had a spoonful of it in her mouth.

She does not swallow the wine. In fact, she is a teetotaler, and if she were to drink wine would lose her subtle magic of taste. Furthermore, she is obliged to take the greatest care of her health. She must be well in order to do her work, for her sense loses its cunning when she gets out of health.—Tit-Bits.

How He Treated Her.

A certain osteopath was treating a young woman who had very weak ankles and wrists. As she lived in a town quite a distance from his own city, he was forced to leave the city Saturday of each week and go to the town in which the young woman lived, give her the treatment Sunday, and return to the office Monday. A friend once asked the osteopath how he had arranged to give the young woman the treatment for her ankles and wrists when she lived at such a distance, and the osteopath replied: "Oh, I go out and treat her week ends."—Lippincott's Magazine.

LEAD GAINED BY NEW JERSEY MAN

ey grabbing, public-seeking marplot from Nebraska—

Wild applause from New York, and some of the other delegations interrupted Stanchfield here.

"If the ninety delegates from New York," he continued, "of the character I have described, are within the power of one man they are moved by wires of tremendous voltage."

"Mr. Bryan has said that the ninety delegates from New York are under the influence of Morgan, Ryan and Belmont. He has stated that no man could be elected by reason of their influence. I desire to say to him, there is no man in the number who is under the influence of the men he has named. Of all the delegates on the floor, the one, omitting Mr. Ryan and Mr. Belmont, most rich and powerful is the gentleman from Nebraska."

"Col. Bryan has never intended to vote for the candidate of this convention unless he was Bryan himself."

"Bryan has supported Wilson in some places and Clark in others, all the time intending to produce in the convention a deadlock from which he could reap the fruits."

Votes for Wilson
"With this explanation, I want to say that my personal vote is cast for Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey."

This last statement caused a sensation, as Stanchfield was expected to vote for Clark. Bryan sat quietly in his seat throughout, chatting with Mark Sullivan and occasionally smiling at Stanchfield's attack. He made no attempt to reply to Stanchfield.

The poll of the New York delegation showed 78 for Clark; 9 for Wilson; two for Underwood and one absent.

Under the unit rule, however, the entire 90 New York vote was cast for Clark.

After a lively caucus to determine whether it would shift from Clark to Wilson the Illinois delegation decided to stand pat for the present and gave its 58 votes to Clark.

Oklahoma Split Even
When Oklahoma was called, the vote was challenged and the roll call showed that the delegation stood: Clark, 11; Wilson, 9. Chairman James ruled that, as the delegation comprised two separate units, and the Wilson unit was still intact, the vote would continue to be divided.

Wilson, 10; Clark, 10, as the convention had instructed.

On the 29th ballot, Indiana cast only 26 of its votes for Wilson, 4 going to Kern, in order to keep the senior senator in a position where he could be considered a candidate.

When Iowa was reached, the

Wilson Ticked
SEA GIRT, N. J., July 1.—

"That is very satisfactory," was Gov. Wilson's comment accompanied by his broadest smile when the news this afternoon was conveyed to him from the telegraph station on the lawn of the "little white house" that he was ahead of Champ Clark by five votes on the 36th ballot in the Baltimore convention. The governor was informed by his lieutenants as soon as Iowa and Vermont put his total score above that of the speaker.

"That's the stuff" was the decidedly unpedantic exclamation of Gov. Wilson, when additional bulletins from the front told him that he was still gaining, on the 31st ballot. It was the first time the governor had allowed himself to show exultation.

chairman of the delegation announced that the delegation stood 11 for Clark to 9 for Wilson, Chairman James ruling that as a majority were still for Clark the vote must be recorded as unit.

When Kansas was reached, the chairman asked the state be passed. A dozen delegates were on their feet in protest. The majority of the delegation are for Wilson.

Despite the long and continued protest of the delegates who objected to the polling, James insisted on it being done.

The poll showed that the delegates stood Wilson 13, Clark 6, and one absent. James started to rule whether the two-thirds vote of Kansas should rule in this case and the entire delegation be cast for Wilson. Theodore Bell of California, had come to the platform and raised the point of order that, as two-thirds of the delegates had not voted for Wilson the vote should be cast in its entirety for Clark.

Kansas For Wilson
Chairman James then declared that, under the rules of the 62nd Congress, under which the convention was working, the two-thirds meant in the resolution could be only two-thirds of the delegates present.

"It is two-thirds of those voting that decides," ruled James, "and not two-thirds of those elected."

He directed that the twenty Kansas votes be cast for Wilson amidst much applause.

On the 29th ballot, Iowa, which was wavering in its support of Clark asked to be passed while the delegates conferred. The 29 Harmon men of the Ohio delegation had also retired to confer. When Iowa's vote showing the Wilson majority was announced, Acting Chairman Henry D. Clayton of Alabama stated that the chairman of the Iowa delegation questioned the vote as recorded and directed that it be verified.

While this was going on, Bell of California and former Governor Francis for the Clark forces, Congressman Palmer of Pennsylvania and Congressman Hughes of New Jersey, for the Wilson forces gathered on the platform. The Clark men wanted the chair to rule that the Iowa unit rule must remain in force and the state vote cast for Clark until two-thirds of the delegation deserted the speaker. Clayton ruled that the vote should be recorded as cast and refused to permit any argument.

Break Starts
Vermont switched to Wilson amidst applause, in the 30th ballot. The entire state vote of eight, previously cast for Foss, was added to the New Jersey governor's column.

In the 31st ballot when West Virginia was called, Colonel McGraw challenged the vote. McGraw, although he is instructed for Clark, had been trying all day to change the delegation to Wilson.

The state convention instructions were called for, and Chairman James ruled that as a majority of the delegates had failed to vote for Wilson, the vote must be counted for Clark.

Wyoming broke away from Clark on the 31st ballot and cast its six votes for Wilson. A moment later Alaska also broke its six votes, dividing three for Clark and three for Wilson.

BUNNY BEAT THE MOTOR CAR

Rabbit Ran So Fast the Chauffeur Had to Speed to Keep Him in Sight.

The scene was on the road to Point Place. Illuminations were furnished by the moon and stars. Besides the rabbit and the auto there were one man and two girls, also a chauffeur.

The big automobile was speeding along the highway, sending its white light ahead, when suddenly right across the path of the rays from the head lamps shot a young rabbit. The chauffeur slackened speed, hating to hurt the little creature, and then the rabbit hopped back into the center of the road again, gave one look into the blinding glare of the lamps and started the race.

Straight down the center of the smooth, white highway he shot on ahead of the car, and the chauffeur speeded up a bit just to see how fast the race was going to be, but he could not catch the rabbit, not by ten feet. That little critter's feet went so fast there did not seem to be any there, and just a speck where the long ears bobbed with the motion of his little body and a brown blur of hair.

And still he ran, on and on, keeping his distance ahead of the big machine as if the light had hypnotized him and he could not stop, while behind in the car big, lazy pursuers laughed and watched and begged the chauffeur not to run him down. There was no such chance.

The rabbit was too quick. When he was tired of the sport he hopped to one side of the road as the car went by, tipped up his tiny head and winked out of one pink eye as he looked at the speeder and its occupants with a quizzical curve of his little mouth.—Toledo Blade.

LAWRENCE CONNOR OF WARRENS DIES HERE

After being sick for only a week, Lawrence Connor of Warrens, Wis., died at one of the local hospitals at 6:30 o'clock this morning. Up to a week ago Mr. Connor was in the best of health, but he was suddenly taken sick and his condition became worse, so he was brought to La Crosse yesterday.

The body was sent to Spring Grove, Minn., this afternoon, and burial will be made at Dorchester, Iowa.

FISCHER MOTORS TO LA CROSSE

C. F. Fischer, formerly of La Crosse, motored to this city from Rochester, Minn., yesterday with a party of friends in his new Overland automobile. Leaving Rochester at 8 o'clock in the morning, they made the run in a little over four hours, reaching La Crosse in time for dinner. They intended to make the return trip yesterday afternoon but were delayed until today by the storm. The men in the party were: Joseph Tracy, George F. Powers, Mr. Michael and C. F. Fischer. They spent yesterday afternoon and this morning visiting friends in the city.

RAIN STOPS GAME

Rain again prevented the Nelson Clothing company and the Viroqua baseball teams from playing their scheduled game at Viroqua yesterday afternoon, this making the second game between these teams which had to be postponed. But a few balls had been pitched when the rain came so hard that further play was impossible. The Nelsons and Viroqua team are scheduled to meet again Thursday afternoon at Copeland park at the Fourth of July celebration.

The Nelsons have scheduled a game with the Galesville team at Galesville on Sunday, July 21, and a great game is expected when these two teams get together.

CHEERING IN THE COMMONS

Various Kinds of Applause That Are to be Heard in the British Lower House.

The giving of applause in the British house of commons has attained the dignity of a science. A cheer from a single member is not infrequent, but has little significance unless it comes from an important personage. It is cheering in chorus that constitutes the British demonstration.

The tone of the cheering varies according to the temper of those who cheer. First, there is the hearty, full-voiced cheer of genuine approval, resounding, awakening the echoes and full of encouragement.

Next comes the low, subdued cheer, gradually spreading along all the benches, indicating the deep-seated agreement that does not seek vociferous or hilarious expression. This is employed either on solemn occasions or in moments of pathos or in acknowledgment of some confession on the part of an opponent.

Ironical cheering is often heard in the commons. The tone of sarcasm is always unmistakable. Often it is the greeting accorded to an argument or a statement by an opponent, for the formal denying of which there may not be an opportunity. It is hostile but frequently good natured enough.

As an intensification of this there is the sarcastic cheer, far sharper and more incisive. Mingled with laughter, it is, from the British standpoint, as disconcerting to the speaker as anything may well be.

A woman may not realize that she has a good figure until other women begin to find fault with it.

THOUGHT IT WAS IMITATION

Barney Weller Was Fond of Jokes, But Rooster Under His Bed Was Too Much.

Barney Weller was about the funniest fellow you ever saw. He was always making people laugh by playing jokes on somebody, and he put up a game on a victim every day in the week. He was in Chicago at a big hotel on one occasion when the butt of one of his jokes sought revenge by securing a live rooster and trying it under Barney's bed at night.

At three o'clock in the morning the rooster turned up for his first vocal selection and let out a long, shrill crow. The second performance of this kind was too much for the humorist. He dressed himself hastily and rushed down to the night clerk.

"Give me my bill!" he said fiercely. "I'm going to get out of this place!"

"But please tell me what the trouble is," suggested the night clerk.

"That don't matter," said Weller angrily. "I'm going to get out of here and get out quick!"

"At least," begged the clerk, "let us know what is the matter with the hotel before you go."

"Well," exploded Weller, "there's a crazy fool next door to me who thinks this place is a henhouse. He's spent the last two hours trying to imitate a rooster."—Popular Magazine.

WOMAN DOCTOR TO VISIT NORMALS

Local Teacher Appointed
Director of Kindergarten Conference in Milwaukee

At a recent meeting of the board of normal regents provision was made for the employment of a woman physician who shall spend her time visiting the various normals in the state for the purpose of looking after the interests of the women students. President F. A. Cotton and Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris returned yesterday from Madison where they attended a meeting of the board of regents.

Miss Clara D. Hitchcock of the kindergarten department of the normal has been appointed director of the kindergarten conference of the annual convention of the Wisconsin Teachers' association which will be held at Milwaukee, Nov. 7, 8 and 9.

Last week the summer school students had the pleasure of listening to a short song recital given by Prof. J. R. Kerr, the local baritone. Prof. Kerr sang a group of songs both Scotch and American in his excellent manner.

Rev. M. Rowlinson of Iowa City, Iowa, will address the students on Wednesday morning, and on Friday Prof. M. V. O'Shea of the university will deliver a talk. July 10 and 11, Dr. Frost of Madison will give two lectures, and on the 29th Prof. M. H. Jackson, superintendent of the county training school at Grand Rapids, Mich., will address the students.

The great number of young men who are attending the La Crosse normal school has always been a strong point about the popularity of the local institution. An agitation was started some time ago for the building of a men's dormitory where the male members of the student body who come from outside the city can live and board at reasonable prices. The latest developments in that agitation are the purchase of two blocks of land west of the normal school for the purpose of erecting such a dormitory. It is doubted, however, that the necessary appropriations will be made this year by the legislature for the structure.

WINONA, Minn., July 1.—While Albert Mlynzak, a man of unusual muscular development, was leading a cow to pasture, he stumbled into a hole on the pasture and endeavored to avoid falling by a muscular effort. In doing so both of his knee caps were broken. It is likely, according to the attending physician, that his legs will be stiff in the future.

WISCONSIN NEWS

SOLDIERS NEED SPRINGS IN SHOES

MADISON, Wis., July 1.—Less than a dozen soldiers have "given out" in the 75-mile march of the 2,000 United States regulars since they left this city last Monday morning for Sparta, Wis. The men in charge of the "chuck wagons," which carry the bread and other provisions from Madison to the troops by big auto trucks, said that the soldiers were able to make fast time over the sands, but that they were compelled to slow down north of Baraboo on account of the stony highways. One of the officers said that if a shoe containing springs were invented, it would be of the greatest aid to the troops in long marches of this character.

The value of forethought is often demonstrated by the after effects.

"PLEASE KILL THAT FLY!"

And You Will Have More Milk For and Less Disease in the Family.

THE MESSENGER OF DEATH.

A Fly in the House is as Dangerous as a Rattlesnake.

No longer can we dismiss the fly with a contemptuous "Shoo!" He is an influence to be reckoned with. Black as he is painted, we must concede him certain virtues. From a worldly point of view he is a hustler "from way back," perpetually on the job and always delivers the goods.

He distributes samples of pestilence with a lavish hand, and the goods always match the samples whether you have ordered them or not and are marked D. O. D.—Death on Delivery.

We may admire the fly for his industry, pertinacity and business enterprise. We may even love him—lukewarmly—as one of God's creatures, but we had better wipe him gently but firmly out of existence, just the same. Flies, like Artemus Ward's Injuns, "is pizen wherever found."

He is the best traveling salesman known to humanity—carries a grip on each of his six legs and a trunk on his head. His line of samples is the most extensive and longest known and will last you not merely from this year to next, but from time to eternity.

A fly in the house is as dangerous as a rattlesnake, as filthy as a louse and as disgraceful as a bedbug. The time will come when any modern, cleanly home will feel itself shamed and disgraced by the presence of a fly, and when every household upon whose premises a brood of flies is detected will be heavily fined or sent to jail.—Woods Hutchinson, M. D., in Fly Fighter.

If The Price of Coffee

Would Double Again

All The Better!

The price of coffee has doubled in three or four years. And this, despite production has doubled in that time. The reason for the present high price of coffee was sought and it has been found that the market supply has been artificially restricted.

The Brazilian government is in the operation and participates in the profits to the extent of an export duty of three cents a pound.

And American bankers are financing the scheme.

Diabolical plot?

Outrageous conspiracy?

Perhaps!

But we did not take our pen in hand to condemn anybody concerned except COFFEE DRINKERS—to condemn them and, also, to congratulate them, both upon the present increased price and the probability that it will go higher.

It isn't exactly inspiring to see American capital finding its way to a foreign country to be used there to the end of exploiting American family pocketbooks.

However, this is not the saddest fact involved, to our way of thinking.

It is most regrettable that the consumption of coffee in this country has increased to a point to warrant manipulation of the supply.

We don't like to look upon coffee as becoming a NECESSITY to the American people, and view with alarm the activities of capital suggesting that it is becoming a necessity.

Coffee isn't good for you.

Too much of it is positively harmful.

If the present price, doubled in four years, would double again, it would be the best thing that ever happened to the excessive coffee drinker.

He wouldn't drink as much of it.

Better yet, maybe he wouldn't drink it at all.

Just possibly you have us put down as being a bit nervy in this—coming in and sitting down beside you before the coffee pot and telling you to keep hands off.

Nevertheless, we mean well.

We are talking for your good.

You like coffee, probably, and perhaps you think it is none of our business if you drink it or if you drink all you want of it. Babies want those pink pills that look like candy and cry if we don't let them have them.

The same pink pills, left around by careless mothers, have killed many babies.

And many grown people know as little as babies about the care of their bodies.

There are intemperate coffee drinkers the same as there are intemperate drinkers of alcoholic beverages.

One cup of coffee isn't going to prove fatal, nor two cups of coffee.

Two cups may upset your entire system, make you uneasy, restless and peevish and unfit you for best results for a day, but it will wear off after awhile the same as a whisky drunk wears off.

But bring to us a person who drinks two and three cups of coffee regularly for breakfast, or a person who drinks coffee three times a day, and we will show you a person with a bad-acting heart, a sluggish liver, a disordered stomach and a shattered nervous system.

If you don't believe us, ask your doctor.

He will tell you that coffee contains caffeine, which he gives in the smallest kind of doses for a heart stimulant.

He will tell you further that too much caffeine or too much coffee will give you a palpitating heart.

Then if you are satisfied to run the risk of having that kind of a heart, keep right on drinking all the coffee you want, and excuse us for interfering. (Detroit Times, June 12, 1912.)

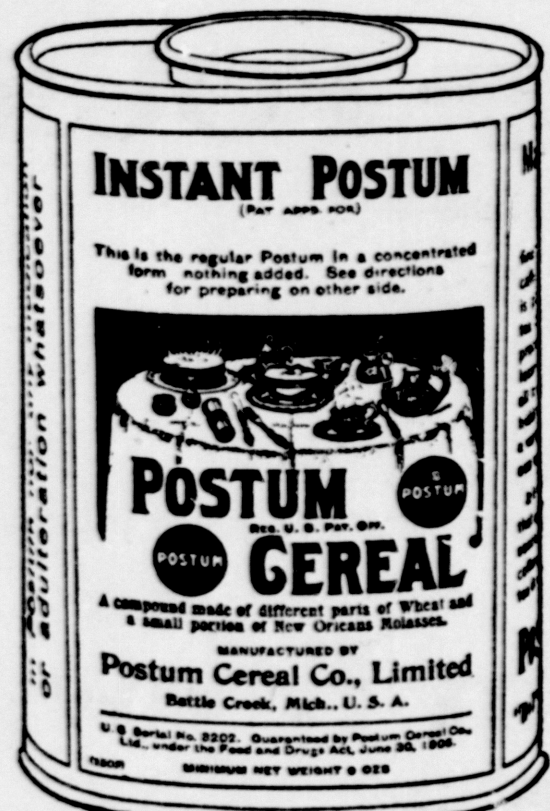

Nowadays many former coffee drinkers are using

Instant Postum

This new food drink

Contains No Caffeine—
Costs Less Than Coffee—Requires No Boiling—and Tastes Better Than Most Coffee

Stir a spoonful of Instant Postum in a cup of hot water, add cream and sugar to taste, and you at once have a delicious drink that's wholesome, pure, and good for old and young.

A 100-cup tin of Instant Postum (no boiling) costs 50 cts. at grocers. 1-2 ct. per cup. Smaller tins at 30 cts.

Standard Postum, large pkg. (the kind which must be boiled 15 min.) 25 cts.

Both produce the same result; one by boiling and the other instantly.

Coffee averages about double that cost.

Housewives appreciate Instant Postum because it saves time, work and fuss in the preparation of a meal; and for its intrinsic merit.

Ask your grocer about it. If he doesn't carry a supply, send us your address with a 2-cent stamp and your grocer's name and we will send you a free sample of this newest food drink.

BALTIMORE SIDELIGHTS

Among the interested spectators at the convention is Joseph Leiter, who once ran a corner in wheat at a cost of several millions to the ancestral estate. Mr. Leiter is now president of the Washington Gas company and is a close friend of August Belmont and Thomas Ryan. Mr. Leiter is not a delegate but he has generally found a seat among the newspapermen.

The second night's session developed a new industry in the way of catering to the crowds. Ice water found a market at five cents a glass. Sanitary drinking cups were at a premium at a cent apiece. Ten cents to the telegraph messenger boy for service, total cost of a drink of ice water sixteen cents. In one part of the hall a lemonade stand was started and the proprietor vied with the reading clerks in getting the ear of the people. The marked absence of betting has been observed at this convention. This is due to the fact that neither the candidates nor their friends have felt any unwarranted confidence in their ability to secure the nomination. With the leading candidates over 200 votes short of the necessary two-thirds and every prospect of deadlocks and uncertain dark horse eventualities, the sporting instincts have been held in check.

Friends of the Champ Clark candidacy, have had an advantage in conducting their demonstrations of enthusiasm. They have controlled the platform. Nearly all the substitute officials appointed by the sergeant-at-arms to guard the passages and steps to the platform are ardent Clark men from Missouri. Consequently when it has been found expedient to have a parade of standards upon the platform, and to drape a pretty lady with a large American flag the Clark people could always pull it off while the other candidates were obliged to confine their activities to the floor. Once a Wilson man thoughtlessly invaded the working seats of the newspaper section, stepping on a piece which Arthur Brisbane was writing.

Arthur showed heat and pushed the delegate off the platform and into the aisle. There was a scrap, and it looked for a moment as if Brisbane would get all muddled up. But a lovely woman intervened, not only saving Brisbane's life and clothes but forming a life friendship between the scrappers which was sealed at a dinner for which Arthur Brisbane paid.

The night session tried the nerves of the delegates, the newspapermen and the employees of telegraph companies, but it never touched the patient endurance of the ladies. As hour after hour dragged on with no event of special interest to those who had the advantage of being in the midst of things where they could hear and see, the far seats of the great galleries continued to blossom like huge flower-bells with the brilliant colors of the women's costumes.

They must have heard or understood very little of what was being done but they sat on until morning. There was a suffrage parade in town last night and it was suggested that the women are proving their interest in public affairs and their superiority to the men in endurance by this exhibition on the convention bleachers.

One of the leather-lungs employed to repeat the proceedings to delegate and spectators let his tongue slip when he leveled his big voice at the galleries and declared: "The visitors in the galleries will keep order and not disturb the peace." Right back at him from a visitor came this: "Did not know there was any peace around here."

One of the happiest little families of Baltimore—that's got the crowded hotel problem solved consists of William Allen White, Jay Darling and Ding Webster, the cartoonist. Henry Beach Needham, and the writer, and George Fitch and Edna Ferber, short story artists. They took a three-story house for convention work and each has two rooms and a bath, big porches to rest upon and real old fashioned Maryland cooking by a black Mammy. They are chaperoned by Dr. and Mrs. J. William Lord, whose mansion they rented. Other people suffer the inconveniences of a hundred thousand crowd in a city equipped for twenty-five while they revel in space and luxury.

EDWARD HATCH, JR.

Something About "the Man Who Made the Housefly Infamous."

When the housefly becomes as extinct as the dodo and fossil specimens labeled "Musca domestica, abundant in United States up to about 1915 A. D." are preserved in glass cases in museums the name of Edward Hatch, Jr., ought to have a place on the label if not a tablet of its own.

Chairman of the fly fighting committee of the American Civic association and chief inspirer of the "swat the fly" movement, he already has a clear title to renown as "the man who made the housefly infamous."

Though actively engaged in the direction of a great dry goods house,

he found time to organize the opposition to the pollution of rivers and harbors by sewage and manufacturing wastes.

His investigation of the New York water front, where flies swarm upon the filth deposits, brought him to a realization of their disease bearing activities. Once convinced of these, he began his anti-fly campaign about four years ago and, though ridiculed at first as a crank, has brought the whole American public around to his point of view. He has done this through the liberal expenditure of his time and money and his utilization of the hearty co-operation of newspapers, magazines and health organizations.

On Mr. Hatch's committee are Dr. Woods Hutchinson, the well known writer on health topics; Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane, expert on civic betterment; Dr. S. J. Crumrine, secretary of the Kansas health board, and Dr. Joseph Y. Porter, health officer of Florida.

The most recent publication of the committee is the Fly Fighter, devoted to the prosecution of the 1912 campaign and issued from the headquarters at 156 Fifth avenue, New York city.

ONALASKA, WIS.

The canning of peas was commenced at the Onalaska Pickle and Canning Co. last week, and a large output is expected, although the present dry spell is damaging the late crop considerably. A great improvement has been added to the factory to lighten the work. Heretofore the peas were unloaded by the laborers and put into the vipers but the present machine is a self feeder and conveys the peas and vines into the vipers where they are sorted into different grades.

MISSISSIPPI'S GREATEST STEAMBOAT

The STEAMER ST. PAUL, of the Streckfus Line, will take her last excursion of the season out of La Crosse July 2, leaving at 8 p.m., returning at 11:30. This is a tremendous five-deck Sidewheeler—the largest boat on the Mississippi, being 300 feet long and 75 feet wide; her two side wheels are 30 feet in diameter.

The St. Paul carries 2,600 passengers, 1,100 more than any other boat is permitted to take, except the "Sidney," also of the Streckfus Line, which has a capacity of 2,000.

No other boat on the Mississippi carries more than 1,500 passengers. Every passenger-carrying steamer must have a Government License posted prominently in the Main Cabin showing the number permitted.

Those of us accustomed to the restricted limits of the average sternwheel steamboat will be agreeably surprised at the comfortable spaciousness of this big five-deck sidewheeler. Over 3,000 chairs are used in order to have more than are needed on each deck, soda fountains and restaurants are on both lower decks.

The Main Cabin, cooled by eighteen electric fans, has a hardwood floor 212 feet long, and is illuminated by three lines of electric lights along its entire length.

The forward promenade decks are seventy-five feet wide—1,000 persons may be comfortably seated on any one of the three main decks. Seven times around the outer rail on promenade deck measures a mile.

A splendid orchestra is carried on all trips, cool, filtered water is supplied in abundance throughout the Steamer without charge. Several hours may be interestingly spent in a tour of inspection over this splendid craft. The St. Paul will leave at 8 p. m. Fare 50c.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION, JULY 2nd

LAST TRIP OF THE SEASON AT LA CROSSE

SOLDIERS WILL SPEND 4TH HERE

1,200 Cavalry Men on Way to La Crosse from Fort Des Moines, Is Word Received

The citizens of La Crosse will be aided in the celebration of the Fourth of July by 1,200 United States soldiers according to word received here by Postmaster William B. Tscherner Saturday. The Sixth regiment of cavalry of Fort Des Moines will arrive here July third on their march to Sparta and will camp here over the fourth.

Mr. Tscherner has been requested to receive bids for supplies from the various jobbing houses. He is also in receipt of a telegram from Washington declaring that any contracts entered into for supplies must be entered into with the understanding that no appropriation has been made for that purpose. However, this is merely a technical point and it is probable that an appropriation will be made soon.

Always Some Shred of Good.

No man is perfect; yet no man is wholly broken and useless. You may grind a mirror to powder, so that it no longer reflects a single ray of light, but you cannot crush a human soul so utterly that no trace of goodness—which is a reflection of the eternal goodness—may be found somewhere in its depths.—Christian Endeavor World.

OLD SOLDIER ASKS AID OF S. BURDICK

Telling a pathetic story of being robbed of all his valuables and being left stranded in a strange territory, C. W. Bridges, who declares he is 77 years old and a civil war veteran, wandered into the office of Poor Commission Sol Burdick Saturday. Bridges declares he was an inmate of the old soldiers' home at Columbus Falls, Mont., and that he was on his way to Madison, when he was relieved of his money, amounting to $28, and his credentials as a member of the G. A. R., which he had left in his coat. He asked aid of the poor department in reaching Portage, where he asserts he can find a sergeant who served with him. Mr. Burdick sent him to the county poor farm, pending an inquiry of the Montana old soldiers' home.

And the Lord also helps those who help others.

RECEPTIONS FOR MOTORBOAT OWNERS

St. Clair Ede, president of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association, today announced a reception will be held at Dubuque on the evening of July 2 for all of the boat owners who are entered for the V. P. B. A. regatta to be held at Davenport. The following evening another reception will be held at Clinton, Iowa. From that place the boats and their owners will go to Davenport to take part in the regatta, which opens on the Fourth of July.

S.S.S. HEALS SORES AND ULCERS

S. S. S. heals Sores and Ulcers in the very simplest way. It just goes right down into the blood and removes the cause, and the place is bound to heal because the impurities and morbid matters which have been the means of keeping the ulcer open are no longer absorbed from the blood. External applications of salves, lotions, plasters, etc., can never produce a cure because they do not reach the source of the trouble. At best they can only allay pain or reduce inflammation; such treatment is working on symptoms and not reaching the cause. Every nutritive corpuscle in the blood is weakened or infected, they cannot nourish the fibrous tissue around the place, but instead they constantly discharge into the flesh around the sore a quantity of impure, germ-laden matter which gradually eats into the surrounding healthy tissue and causes the ulcer to enlarge. Since impure blood is responsible for Sores and Ulcers, a medicine that can purify the blood is the only hope of a cure. S. S. S. has long been recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers, possessing the qualities necessary to remove every impurity from the blood. While curing the sore or ulcer S. S. S. brings about a healthy condition of the flesh by supplying it with rich, healthy blood, and thus makes the cure permanent and lasting. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

BADGERS SECOND IN HUDSON RACES

Cornell Takes the Varsity
Eight and Four Oar
Rows, but Wisconsin
Is Close Behind

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 1. —Cornell, the perennial champion, made another clean sweep of the intercollegiate regatta Saturday, winning all three events on the Hudson. Wisconsin came in second in the big event, the varsity eight, Columbia finishing third, Syracuse fourth, Pennsylvania fifth and Leland Stanford last. The race started with Wisconsin leading, Syracuse second and Columbia third. At the half-mile Columbia pulled ahead, but could only hold the lead for a few minutes before Cornell got in front. The big crew won by three lengths. The official time was 19:21½. Wisconsin's time was 19:25.

Wisconsin was Cornell's chief contender in the two-mile race of the freshmen eights. The tilt was intensely exciting, the winning margin being a length and a half.

Wisconsin proved the "dark horse" in the Hudson regatta Saturday, the Badgers upsetting all "dope" and taking second place in both the freshmen and varsity eight oared races.

It was the best showing that the men from the west have ever made in the east and the camp is singing the praises of Coach Vail, who two years ago took hold of the training of the Badger oarsmen. It was a great victory to defeat such crews as Columbia and Syracuse, both of which had been touted as far superior to the Wisconsinites by critics who have camped on the trail of the crews for the past week.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 1. —Morris C. Sjoblom, No. 3, in the Badger varsity eight, was Saturday night elected captain for next year.

TOMAH, WIS.

Mr. F. Took is in this city at present, being sent here by Mr. R. A. Richards of Sparta, to find out all he can concerning the early history of Tomah. Mr. Richards is writing the history of Monroe county and is writing up Tomah now.

Mrs. Frank O. Lueck and two children, Norman and Cornelia, have gone for a two weeks' visit to Watertown and Fond du Lac. At Fond du Lac they attended the twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of the pastor, Rev. G. E. Bergemann which was held at St. Peters Lutheran church. Rev. Bergemann is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Lueck and he was a pastor in St. Paul's Lutheran church in this city for a number of years.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Paul's Lutheran church Friday evening at eight o'clock when Miss Lillian Matzke became the wife of Mr. William Kirst. Ewald Kirst brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Mable Matzke, sister of the bride was bridesmaid. Rev. J. G. Glaeser performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirst will reside south of this city on a farm recently purchased by Mr. Kirst from Mr. William Rehberg.

Valley Junction has planned a fine celebration for the Fourth of July. Quite a number of people from this city expect to be present.

Carl Henry left recently for Iron Mountain, Mich., where he will pitch during the summer months.

Miss Ada Swan of Biloxi, Miss., is visiting at the home of Watson Earle.

Mr. J. C. Dunlap is spending a two weeks vacation at the home of his son, Ray Dunlap.

The Tomah baseball team has a ball game scheduled for the Fourth of July. Fifty dollars will be awarded to the winner.

Miss Ruth Sexton is visiting relatives and friends at Sheboygan.

Miss Harriet Agard of Binghampton, N. Y., is visiting Mrs. Frank H. Berlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bickel were recent visitors in this city from Fennimore, Wis.

Mr. A. E. Hollister has returned from Dowagiac, Mich. recently, this being the fiftieth anniversary of the old regiment. He also visited relatives while there.

Leon Drowatzki has returned to spend his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Drowatzki, on Superior, Avenue.

A big dance will be held in the Armory on the evening of July 4th. Boyze orchestra will furnish the music.

Blueberries are being picked here at present but the crop is very poor. Edwin Finnerty, Clyde Strochen, Arthur Johnson are fishing at Squire Lake at present.

William Radke of Baraboo, is visiting relatives in this city.

Mrs. H. H. Sherwood of Mauston, visited friends in this city lately.

Mr. Henry Anderson of Columbus was a recent caller in Tomah.

COL. BRYAN IN NEW ROLE; REPORTS NATIONAL CONVENTIONS AND SUMS UP POLITICAL SITUATION FOR NEWSPAPER READERS

Col. Bryan dictating newspaper stories at Baltimore.

Col. W. J. Bryan played an entirely new role at the national political conventions this year. He had been retained by a syndicate of newspapers to report both conventions, and he did so faithfully. Bryan did not take the job because he needed the money; he is already well fixed financially. He simply wanted newspaper readers to see the big conventions as he saw them. In the accompanying photograph he is seen dictating to his stenographer the story of the second day's action at the Democratic convention in Baltimore.

Parliamentary Law.

No one man is responsible for parliamentary law. It was born of deliberative exigencies. Its rules, precedents and usages are contained neither in statutes nor court decisions and are only binding when a deliberative body chooses to make them so. Most of the rules now accepted had their origin in the English parliament. Changes have been made to meet the needs of our legislative bodies, even as changes were made in the English parliament—parliamentary law growing from the simple procedure of the Anglo Saxon town moot to the more complicated deliberative machinery of today.

A woman may not realize that she has a good figure until other women begin to find fault with it.

WAR!

THE drums are beating, the fife is shrilling, the flags are waving. Vast crowds line the streets; children peer anxiously into the faces of fathers whom they will never again behold. Wives search longingly for the sight of a loved one whose arms will never again infold them. Valiant mothers check their tears, their breasts swell with pride as they devote their splendid sons to a great cause.

The nimble fingers of telegraphers speak from State to State, mighty ministers confer, engineers hurry to defend vulnerable points—gunboat and convoy steam proudly to their destinations.

The bugles blare. The cavalry thunders across the field—cannon crash and smash, shrapnel shrieks, mortars cough. From tree and rock keen-eyed sharpshooters search for shoulder straps.

A curtain of smoke rolls across the devastated meadows and behind the veil rifle and musket rattle and crackle.

Night falls. The contest ceases, ambulances sway drunkenly to the hospital, creaking with the weight of shattered men.

Long-Lost, Original Brady Civil War Photographs Issued In 16 Superb Sections

One Each Week for Only 10 Cents and the Coupon

These pictures are the only war-time photographs which any Government ever allowed to be taken. The war correspondent today has become virtually a war prisoner. Suspected as a possible spy, he is kept away from headquarters, from the firing line, from any scene that might betray the losses suffered, the location of forts, the extent of earth-works.

But in '61, Brady and his daring assistants penetrated to the very storm centers. There was no "censor," no orders restricting photographers, no suspicion fifty years ago. The camera was thought a toy. Photoengraving had not been dreamed of. So in these 16 Sections of "The Civil War Through the Camera" you see

—and the only one—it will always remain. The Civil War was also the last grand scale fighting that was picturesque, personal, hand-to-hand. Think of it! In '61 no general firing was done beyond 300 yards. Brady and his followers did what will never be done again. They crept close to the trenches and the earthworks and photographed a great war in progress.

Modern field guns are deadly at three miles—often while the cannoneers are entirely out of sight. But in is picture after picture taken while the enemy was not a mile away—cannoneers actually working their guns under fire, in sight of ramparts and buildings sheltering hostile forces.

So, for the first time the gallantry of the boys in blue and boys in gray is reflected with absolute impartiality. Their glory is recorded to the full, no scene or action, no bit of local color or atmosphere, no dashing effect of appearance or bearing is minimized any more than it is exaggerated by this camera record.

What We Have Done for You

This paper has entered a nation-wide alliance whose purpose is to place the long lost Brady War Photographs and Elson's New History of the Civil War in reach of every American home for such a trifling sum that it will never be felt.

Each section of "The Civil War Through the Camera" is complete as a novel—and the full set of sixteen form a history of the war such as has never before been published.

Beginning with the opening gun at Sumter, these sections pass on through the fight along the Mississippi, the struggle for Richmond, the rise of Lee, the opening of the Mississippi, the crisis at Gettysburg, the bitter struggle along the Tennessee, the coming of Grant—and sweeps on to the surrender of Lee at Appomattox.

Remember, the Original Brady War Photographs and Elson's New History of the Civil War Can Be Only Obtained In This City Through This Paper

This Coupon is a Pass to the Past

It admits you within the lines of the armies of the North and South. Its spell is magic. It turns back the pages of history. It carries you out of the present and lands you in one leap into the Civil War. Cut it out and bring it with 10 cents to this office for your copy of Section 5. If you haven't received Sections 1, 2, 3, or 4, we will supply you with either or all of the 5 Sections for 10 cents each and the one coupon.

Detroit hitters were about as effective against Ed Walsh as a dairy lunch fork is against a plate of beans. They could not touch him at all. Cobb and Delehanty made two hits each, but the other Tigers could not see the big spit-ball man.

The White Sox hammered Covington and Works for fourteen safeties. Lord and Bodie led the attack with three clouts each.

Dick Hoblitzell may yet persuade the red bosses to remit his fine. A homer and two singles in one game constitute the argument.

The Nap joy will be peevish for a week. His four singles in the second game against St. Louis would ordinarily look big, but Jackson, hitting just ahead of him in the order, made him look weak in comparison. Three of Jackson's four hits were good for three bases. Only one was stingy enough to yield one base.

Detroit fans saw some action in the second game, after watching the poor old Tigers get walloped in the first. In six innings, all the second game lasted, the Tigers made sixteen hits for eleven runs. The Sox pounded out ten hits for nine tallies. Twenty-six hits and twenty-one runs in six innings sounds like town ball.

Even your best friends haven't time to do much worrying on your account.

WEGMAN PITCHES A TWO-HIT GAME

Outcasts Are Held at Bay While Rochester Wins a Victory by Score of 2 to 1

After being batted out of the box in the first inning Saturday, Wegman went to the slab yesterday afternoon and held the Outcasts to two hits, Rochester winning the game, 2 to 1. The last part of the bargain day attraction was called off on account of darkness and it rained after the fourth inning of the first combat but Nelson kept the players at work until the game was finished.

Wegman was in excellent form and the Outcasts couldn't solve his delivery at all, the total of their efforts in this direction being two bingles. They made one run but not a hit figured in it and they wouldn't have counted had it not been for two errors by Collins, who dropped two throws, allowing the run to come in. Helgeson clouted out the longest hit of the season to start the eighth inning, a triple to the right field fence, but poor coaching and a lack of coaching cost a run and probably the game.

Helgeson's triple opened the eighth but there was nobody coaching on third to tell the pitcher to register when the throw home got away from Lizzette. Helgeson could have reached the plate easily as the ball went past Lizzette to the stand. Larson was then sent to third after one opening had been lost. Lizzette threw to Dreis to catch Helgeson off third but his throw was high and Dreis could only check its flight, the sphere rolling behind him. Evidently Larson told him to go home, then called him back and then sent him in but this gave Dreis time to recover the ball and Helgeson was caught easily. This spoiled a grand opening as Bond was passed but a double play closed the round.

Outside of the sixth nning when the Outcasts scored their only run, this was the only chance they had to tally as nobody else saw third base alive. In the sixth inning Graves got a life after one was out, when Collins dropped Walker's peg on his grounder. Meinert sacrificed Pease, who was running for Graves, to second, and he completed the circuit when Collins again dropped the throw on Van Horn's grounder and so gave him a life.

This lead didn't last long for although it was now raining hard, Nelson kept the game going and with one down in the seventh Lizzette went to center. Hruska was put on to run for him. Jacobs sacrificed him to second, then Weidell came to time with a terrific hit to right field which netted him three corners and sent in Hruska with the tying run. Gates was passed but Bond took Wegman's bounder and got him at first.

M. Walsh started the trouble in the eighth with a two bagger which resulted in the winning tally. Walker's sacrifice put him on third from where he registered while Bond was throwing out Collins. Dreis beat out a punt but was caught stealing.

Three fast double plays were made. Rochester making two while the Outcasts made one which averted impending trouble. Helgeson started the double killing in the third with Wegman on third by means of a triple with one down. With Walsh at bat the squeeze play was attempted but Walsh bunted a fly right into Helgeson's hands. Wegman was almost over the plate and he was easily doubled off third. Walker made the best felding plays of the day when he grabbed Du Chien's hot liner with one hand in the first round and robbed him of a hit.

ATHLETES WOULD SLEEP ON LAND
STOCKHOLM, July 1.—The American athletes, the liner Finland having been in dock 36 hours, today became dissatisfied, and are demanding that the committee arrange quarters for them at a hotel. The life on board ship has grown tiresome and the men say that they cannot do themselves justice in the games unless they are quartered on land for a rest. The marathon runners have already taken rooms at an inn along the course and are able to train handily. The other athletes want the same privileges. All the other teams except the Russian are quartered on land.

geons fought a game uphill battle the Outcasts won out, 7 to 5.

The Outcasts had their batting eyes with them in that first stanza and they took a lead which was too big to overcome. Wegman was sent to the slab to oppose Bond's gang but he had little on the ball and he was taken out after he had passed the first man and allowed three hits and got only one out and that on a sacrifice. Le Clair relieved him but he was found for two hits which combined with a pass and a wild throw let the Outcasts get their runs. After the first inning Le Clair held the locals safe although they hit him hard but were unfortunate in bunching swats.

After getting away to a good start, Morse was found for three hits and a brace of tallies in the second although all the swats were of the horseshoe order, Le Clair getting a triple on a single when it bounded way over Graves' head. Gates' single in that round was a high bounder which jumped over Larson's double. Morse was relieved by Pease after Weidell opened the sixth with a double. Pease was in good form and he would have shut out the visitors during the remainder of the battle if Bond had not stood still and let Hruska's high fly drop in the infield without going after it until the ball hit the ground.

A pass to Bond, singles by Du Chien and Graves, Meinert's sacrifice, Van Horn's single, Dreis' wide peg on Weigert's grounder, Larson's single, Walsh's walk and Bond's double at his second time up, counted the seven runs and won for the Outcasts in the first round.
